EPPS'S COCOA

Breakfast.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a deliciously flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in packets, by Grocers, labelled thus:

JAMES EPPS & Co. Homoeopathic Chemists
London, England.

Harper's Magazine.

ILLUSTRATED.

The Magazine will celebrate the fourth Centenary of the Discovery of America by its rediscovers, through articles giving a more thorough exposition than has hitherto been made of the Recent Unprecedented Development of our country and especially in the Great West. Particular attention will also be given to Dramatic episodes of American History.

The Field of the next European War will be described in a Series of Papers on the Danube "From the Black Forest to the Black Sea," by Pauline Bigelow and F. D. Millet, illustrated by Mr. Millet and Alfred Parsons. Articles will also be given on the German, Austrian, and Italian Armies, illustrated by T. de Thulstrup. Mr. W. D. Howells will contribute a new novel, "A World of Chance," characteristically American. Especial prominence will be given to short stories, which will be contributed by T. B. Aldrich, R. H. Davis, A. Conan Doyle, Margaret Deland, Miss Woolson, and other popular writers.

Among the literary features will be Personal Reminiscences of Nathaniel Hawthorne, by his college classmate and life long friend, Horatio Bridge, and a Personal Memoir of the Brownings, by Anne Thackeray Ritchie.

Harper's Young People

AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY.

The Thirteenth Volume of "Harper's Young People" began on November 3rd 1891. For the coming year this best and most comprehensive weekly in the world for youthful readers offers a varied and fascinating programme. In serial fiction it will contain "Diego Pinzon," a story of the first voyage of Columbus, by John H. Coryell; "Cano mates," a Story of the Florida Keys and Everglades, by Kirk Murro; another story by one of the best known and most popular of American authors; and stories in three and four parts by Thomas Nelson Page, E. H. House, Angeline Teal, Ella Rodman Church, and Mary S. McCobb. More than two hundred short stories by favorite writers, articles on travel, out-door sports, in-door games, and all the subjects dear to the hearts of the young, besides hundreds of illustrations by leading artists, will combine to make "Harper's Young People" for 1892 an irresistible repository of pleasure and information for boys and girls.

"The best weekly publication for young people in existence. It is edited with scrupulous care and attention, and instruction and entertainment are mingled in its pages in just the right proportions to captivate the minds of the young, and at the same time to develop their thinking power."—Observer, N.Y.

cousin and old friend of Pinkney, came to Toronto from Quebec, and entered the law office of Ross, Cameron & McAndrew as a student. Young McCord was small stature with blonde hair and moustache, and rather insignificant in appearance. He was welcomed into the Pinkney household and treated with every consideration. As his salary was very small Pinkney frequently advanced him money. Pinkney further took him to the theatre and introduced him to his many friends. In August last, Pinkney, who is assistant manager of the Farmers' Loan and Savings Company, took a six weeks' vacation and went up the lake, finally reaching Chicago. His wife, who had remained at home, wrote to him, saying that she (Mrs. Pinkney) was too intimate with McCord. If he (Pinkney) thought they were too intimate she would leave the house. Pinkney was startled and puzzled by the letter. He cut his vacation short, hurried home, and found that his wife and McCord had been criminally intimate. However, he did not wish to have a sensation over the matter, and told Mrs. Pinkney that for the sake of her family and the children she had borne him he would do nothing if McCord would leave town. She should still live in the house and bring up the children as if nothing had happened. Mrs. Pinkney consented, and McCord apparently left town. A short time after he reappeared.

THE ELOPEMENT.
Three weeks ago Mrs. Pinkney and McCord left Toronto together, taking a considerable quantity of baggage and about $100, which had been given to Mrs. Pinkney at different times. They came to Detroit and stopped at Rice's hotel as man and wife. A few days later they went to Fenton, Mich., where Pinkney and McCord have a cousin named Goodfellow, a school teacher. Goodfellow had never seen Mrs. Pinkney, and when McCord introduced her as his wife the matter was taken without question. After a two weeks' visit in Fenton the couple decided to return to Detroit. Pinkney in the meanwhile had traced the eloping couple, and seemed to be well posted on their movements. He came to Detroit accompanied by his brother John Pinkney and when McCord and Mrs. Pinkney stepped off the train this afternoon they were accosted by the two Pinkneys and two police officers. There was quite a dramatic scene, Pinkney nearly losing control of himself in his rage.

THE ARREST.
The elopers were taken to the Central station with their baggage. Pinkney said he did not wish to persecute his wife for adultery, but wanted to persecute McCord for taking some of his (Pinkney's) property from Toronto. An examination of the trunks showed enough articles belonging to Pinkney to make out a case, and the couple were locked up.
Later, accompanied by officers, McCord and Mrs. Pinkney went to Gies' hotel to get supper. They were met by the two Pinkneys.

"You brute," said John Pinkney, addressing McCord, "do you know that when your mother heard of your villainy, she was so shocked that she now lies at the point of death?"
McCord exhibited a great deal of anxiety at this and set up a piteous wail.
"Quit your blubbering," almost shouted Thos. Pinkney. "I cannot stand any of your sentiment. Did you stop to think of your mother or me or anyone else when you were betraying my friendship, when you were tearing my wife from me?"
Pinkney then decided to prosecute the couple for adultery. He says that McCord, while betraying his confidence, was courting a Toronto heiress, worth $250,000, with the apparent hope of winning her.

Counterfeiters at Work.
For some time past Inspector O'Leary, of the Dominion police, has been endeavoring to locate the source of so much spurious coin and last night called to his aid six men of his own force, with Detective Montgomery and six constables of the Ottawa police. About eight o'clock they proceeded to the fruit store of Dominic Rosso at 133 Rideau st., Ottawa, charging him with passing a number of spurious coins in the inspector arrested the man, his wife, and a daughter. A small number of coins were found on the premises, but no signs of manufacturing such were visible. The posse then proceeded to a house on Duke street, and made a thorough search, but without avail, afterward visiting other residents on Bridge, Clarence, and two on By Ward market square, all occupied by Italians. In all these, diligent search was made for coins and any evidences of the making of them but none existed. Rosso and his family were placed in the lock-up, and when charged before the magistrate this morning, the case was deferred until Friday. The parties have been residents of the city for some time.

POLITICAL AND GENERAL.

The Canadian asks if it is the intention of the Minister of Justice to make an effort to recover the $85,000 of the McGreevy-Connolly case which was given to Lemonde, Sir Hector Langevin's organ. Sir John Thompson alleges that the money in question was obtained from the public treasury as a result of the criminal conspiracy between Mr. McGreevy and the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. If so why should not Lemonde disgorge?

In the recent State elections the Farmers' Alliance put a poor figure. A year ago the movement seemed to be so strong and to be growing with such rapidity that its leaders predicted that by 1892 it would hold the balance of power. The cyclone which struck the Republicans last fall was due to no small extent to the action of the Alliance, and many Republicans were therefore inclined to agree with those who prophesied great things for the new party. Nevertheless the structure is falling to pieces already. In Kansas, its stronghold, it was badly beaten last week. In New York, Pennsylvania, Iowa, Colorado, Nebraska, and South Dakota its influence was scarcely perceptible. From all these places it is reported that the members of the sub-alliances broke away and voted with the old-line parties. The cause of the collapse is not far to seek. The leaders of the Alliance adopted as their corner-stone free silver coinage, which means a debased currency, and recommended that the national treasury should undertake the functions of a pawnshop, and issue unlimited silver certificates upon the security of farm products of unstable value. Such a platform was too infirm to make headway among intelligent men. Yet the discussions incident to the movement have been of service to farmers, especially that of the tariff question. Anything which lifts this class out of the old rut and starts it thinking for itself, does good.

COLLAPSE OF SEATS AT A BULL FIGHT.

Rome, Nov. 10.—A terrible accident happened to day in Castel-a-Mare, a city on the Bay of Naples. A large number of spectators had gathered to witness a series of bull fights which were to take place in the arena of the circus at that place. While one of the contests was in progress, and the people had been worked up to a high state of excitement by the struggle between the infuriated animal and its tormentors, the circular tiers of seats from which the spectators were viewing the sport became weakened, and a large section of the structure containing 500 persons suddenly collapsed and carried the people down with it. Those seated on the wrecked spot had no chance to make any attempt to escape. There was first a terrifying tremor and lurching of the structure, and then before anyone had a chance to realise the danger there was a horrible grinding, tearing noise, and the seats gave way beneath the terror-stricken people and they could only utter a cry of alarm when all were precipitated with a terrible crash to the ground below. Instantly a scene of the greatest excitement and confusion ensued. Those of the spectators who were uninjured, as soon as they could recover from their fright, hastened to render whatever assistance was possible in rescuing the unfortunate people in the ruins. Those buried in the debris who had not been rendered unconscious were shouting piteously for help, but although the rescuers worked heroically it required a considerable time before all the injured could be extricated from the jumble of torn and splintered woodwork. Finally all were got out, and surgical assistance was obtained for the large number of those who were bruised and cut and had bones broken or fractured. Nearly every one who went down with the falling portion of the structure received a wound of some kind. When the large force of physicians who had been summoned had concluded their labors it was learned that 100 of the victims were seriously injured, and that in twenty cases it was feared that the wounds would have a fatal result.

HAMILTON, Nov. 11.—The trial of the North Westworth election cases was set for

HALDIMAND'S MEMBER.

Dr. Morque, M.P. for Haldimand, is in the city. It is said that the doctor will not seek re-election if he is unseated, but, after taking up his residence in British Columbia, will try to secure a constituency in that Province, his ambition being to get into the Cabinet as the representative of the Far West.

Winnipeg, Nov. 9.—The Northwest territories election took place Saturday. The issue was whether the Prohibition law in the Territories was to be continued or liquor licenses granted. The result was a complete rout of the Prohibitionists, only two of their candidates, being elected. These will represent Wolsely and Edmonton. Many of the elections were by acclamation and these acclamations made the victory for the license people certain.

Rumors that the present parliament will be dissolved as soon as Mr. Abbott has filled the vacancies in his cabinet are again current, but if any attention at all is to be paid to the requirements of the constitution the electoral divisions of the country should be re-adjusted in accordance with the returns of the recent census before another election is held. No doubt Mr. Abbott and his colleagues are anxious to get a lease of power before further disclosures are made by parliamentary committees.

A DESTRUCTIVE GALE.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Another gale swept over the south of England last night. A French schooner was wrecked near Hythe, and the captain and his wife and son were drowned. The iron ship Benvenue, from London for Sydney, was washed ashore near Sandgate and wrecked. The crew took refuge in the rigging, and although the life-savers made strenuous efforts to take them off they failed. The hull of the Benvenue is gradually sinking and is now completely covered with water. The bodies of several victims of the steamer have been cast upon the beach at Sandgate.

A later despatch from Sandgate says that the lifeboat crew made another but fruitless effort to reach the wrecked ship Benvenue. Some of the crew, exhausted by their long exposure to the warring elements, became so weakened that they found it impossible to longer cling to the rigging, and so were forced to let go. They dropped in the yeasty waters and sank out of sight. The others, some of whom are undoubtedly lashed fast, are still in the rigging. The storm had extended northward and now rages with great fury from Wick, on the east coast of Scotland, to the Scilly Islands, in the English channel. This group of islets number about 140 and constitute a constant menace to vessels during stormy weather. There are several lighthouses on the islands, but the shipwrecks that have occurred there have been many.

A vessel named the Paramount has sunk off Lowestoft, in Suffolk. All hands except two sailors were drowned.

In London the storm has done considerable damage. In many places, where buildings were in course of erection, the boarding in front of them was blown out into the streets and temporarily stopped the passage of pedestrians and vehicles. The wind howled through the streets and blew with such force that walking was only accomplished with the greatest difficulty. A number of persons whose business compelled them to be out doors were badly injured by being struck by falling signs that were blown from their fastenings overhead. At Westminster a large barrier of planking which had been erected before a building was carried away. A number of pedestrians were struck by the flying planks and several severely injured.

A despatch has been received from St. Leonards announcing that the barque Amor is stranded near that town. The life-saving corps made many attempts to rescue the crew, who took to the rigging, but all their efforts were unavailing, and the only hope for the wrecked sailors is that the storm may subside before they die of exhaustion.

The interruption to the telegraph service is general throughout Southwest England.

Mr. Hugh Thompson, of Deseronto, spent a few days with his parents here lately.

Miss N. Henderson has returned to her work in Kingston again.

The "Prentice Boys" ball held in the Town Hall on Thursday, Nov. 5th inst., was a grand success. Prof. Reilly's string band, of Kingston, furnished the music. The supper, which was an elaborate one, was prepared by Mrs. William MacDonald.

Early Monday morning numbers were seen wending their way to St. Bartholomew's church to witness the marriage of Thomas McCormick and Miss Ellen D. O'Rourke; also Patrick Dungould and Miss Mary McMullen. At nine o'clock the church was packed to its utmost. The happy double event took place about ten o'clock, conducted by Rev. Father McWilliams. Miss O'Rourke was arrayed in myrtle green, with plush bonnet, white trimmings and veil. Miss McMullen was dressed in a pretty becoming suit of brown, with cream trimmings and white veil. The bridesmaids were richly dressed. Miss O'Rourke was attended by her sister, Miss Mary O'Rourke, and the groom by J. Flemming; Miss McMullen's bridesmaid was Miss Inglisbee and John McMullen, brother of the bride, was right hand man. After North Westward election cases were set for this morning at the court house, before Judge Rose and MacMahon. There was a petition against Thomas Bain, M.P., in the name of W. Walker, of Dundas, charging him with corrupt practices at the last election. A counter petition was filed by Thos. Bain, M.P., against T. A. Wardell, his opponent, charging him with similar offences. H. C. Gwyn, of Dundas was counsel for Mr. Wardell, and Mr. Bain was represented by T. H. A. Begue, of Dundas. It was well understood that the petitions would be dropped and few persons were in court when the judges took their seats.

When Justice Rose intimated that he and Justice MacMahon were prepared to hear the evidence, Mr. McGwyn stated that he had none to offer.

Mr. Begue asked that the petition against Mr. Bain be dismissed with costs, and the usual certificates be made under section 43 that the defendant is not guilty of the acts charged.

Judge Rose accordingly dismissed the petition.

Mr. Begue stated that in view of the dismissal the case would be no object in going on with the counter petition.

Judge Rose then dismissed the counter petition and the endeavor to dislodge Mr. Bain from his seat in Parliament came to an abrupt end within the space of five minutes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Among prominent Canadians who have recently been here is Mr. J. D. Edgar, M.P. He has been unwell for some time and was ordered south by his doctors. He has gone from here to North Carolina. The Tory papers will probably not charge him with treasonable conspiracy when they learn that he bore letters from a high personage at Ottawa to Sir Julian Pauncefote, who, like all the Americans with whom he came in contact, treated Mr. Edgar handsomely. He was introduced by Sir Julian [the President] and Mr. Blaine. Speaking of reciprocity he said:—"There is much interest felt all over Canada in the expected opening of negotiations by the Canadian Ministers with the American Government as to a reciprocity treaty between the two countries." Being asked what policy the Liberals were likely to pursue with respect to reciprocity, Mr. Edgar said:—"Although the Liberal party in Canada is not in power they occupy a strong position in Parliament, and believe that they will soon displace the present Conservative Administration. The Liberals gained their increased strength at the elections of last March by their earnest advocacy of unrestricted reciprocity with the United States. For that reason it is safe to say that the Liberal Opposition would support the Canadian Government in the widest possible reciprocity that they may find it necessary to concede. The Canadian negotiators will therefore be in the fortunate position of being able to disarm their domestic opponents by the liberality of their concessions in the way of including in a treaty all or any articles they may produce or manufacture in the two countries." Mr. Edgar thus gives notice to the Dominion Ministry that they cannot go too far in the liberality of the offers which they may make here in December to please the Liberals of Canada.

It is known, from other sources, that the Government of the United States does not expect any important result to come from the conference of December, because it is not believed that the Tories can so far throw their National Policy overboard as to make propositions that will be entertained here. And it is settled in advance that it will be necessary for the Dominion commissioners who have sought the conference to come here with some definite proposition. The attitude of the United States Government, is that, yielding to the very earnest solicitation of the Dominion Government, made through the British Minister, the conference was agreed upon. Although called a conference, the term audience would better describe the meeting that is to be held, as it is understood by the Administration. The United States has nothing to say, but the President and Secretary of State are prepared to listen. A proposition must come from Canada, which made the request for the meeting. Many things have happened since the conference was first agreed to which will cause embarrassment to the Canadian commission; among other things, the breach of faith of the commissioners on the part of Canada who were parties to the minute conference of last summer. The Government undoubtedly attaches much more importance to the speech which Mr. Laurier will make in Boston on November 17th than to anything that the representatives of the Abbott Government are likely to say in December. Mr. Laurier is expected to define the position of the Liberals, and his utterances are awaited with much interest in the United States.

The interruption to the telegraph service is general throughout Southwest England. Several vessels are ashore between Dover and Dungeness. A number of vessels have been driven past Sandgate with their insignia hoisted with the jack down, showing that they were in distress and desired assistance. This would have been rendered had it been possible, but the gale shows no sign of abatement, and to try to give help to vessels that by any means could possibly care for themselves would have been foolhardy.

GREAT DAMAGE.

The damage to property at Folkestone and Deal is very great. The roofs of several houses were blown off and the streets are strewn with slates and tiles.

At Christ Church, a town twenty miles southwest of Southampton, on the English channel, the rivers are swollen by the excessively heavy rains which have accompanied the gale, and have overflowed their banks. The rising waters flooded the country in the vicinity of Christ Church, and part of the town itself is inundated. The damage to fishing boats and other small craft employed in the local coast-wise trade is large, but no estimates of the amount of loss as yet can be made.

THE MIDLAND COUNTIES.

The farmers in the Midland counties are growing discouraged at the misfortunes that are pursuing them. In these counties the previous gales and floods did an immense amount of damage. The rivers in the Midland counties are rapidly rising, and it is feared that there will be a general repetition of the floods of a few weeks ago.

MORE CATASTROPHES

Part of the crew of the life-saving boat at Hythe, while engaged in the work of rescuing a shipwrecked crew, were swept from their boat and drowned.

From Dungeness too comes a story of the loss of some of the brave and hardy lifeboat men. A foreign barquentine ashore at that place, and the lifeboat men started gallantly to the rescue of her endangered crew. A tremendously heavy sea was running, and the lifeboat broached to. Once in a trough of the sea she capsized and all hands went overboard. Five of the crew were swept away before they could grasp the life lines on the sides of the boat, and though they wore cork jackets they were lost. The other men succeeded in righting their boat and scrambling into her.

At Deal a fishing boat was capsized and two of her crew were drowned.

Several vessels are ashore between Dungeness and Dover, and it is feared they will go to pieces and their crews will perish before assistance can get to them.

A despatch from Lowestoft announces that a capsized off that port to-day and 6 of her crew were drowned. A 1,000 ton ship, the Pungle, has gone ashore at Hastings. The passengers and crew were saved with difficulty. At every port on the east and south coasts of England great anxiety prevails as to the fate of fishing boats, hundreds of these boats, induced by fine weather, having put to sea yesterday.

Unknown vessels are reported wrecked at many points.

Tamworth

After a profitable season our cheese factories have closed for this year.

Our grain buyers are keeping things hot and grain is moving nicely.

The fall ploughing is nearly completed. Owing to the fine weather and no rain our farmers have done exceedingly well in turning over their farms for the spring grain. Our land is mostly loam and the dry weather was a big bonanza in this vicinity.

All the wells in the village are dry or nearly so. We need rain badly and weather prophets predict another month of dry weather.

Phil McKim, our genial bus driver intends moving to Enterprise, our sister village, where he is engaged in the cabinet and undertaking business. He has purchased a first-class hearse and team. Phil we will miss you, and Enterprise's gain will be our loss.

W. Carscallen arrived home from the west safe, and looking as if he had been well kept as well away.

Bobbie Caswell is running a special bus to and from the trains. He expects to continue until the cold weather appears.

F. B. Robinson, of Westport, called on his way to Grand Forks, Dakota.

Patrick O'Neill, of San Jose, Cal., visiting his brother, B. O'Neill, Sheffield, returns this week to his western home.

Division court on Tuesday. The docket was light.

We were pleased to hear of the success of our old friend, C. P. Sherman. He is getting through his examinations at Kingston.

largest of any Sunday since the opening of the church.

Mr. Crossley was at one time pastor of the Methodist church, and his many friends were very glad to see and hear him once more.

Rev. Rice, preached in Belleville Sunday exchanging with Mr. Crossley for the day. On Thursday evening of this week the anniversary tea was held in the Union Hall, where a splendid tea was served by the ladies of the church, followed by a musical and literary programme.

The ash and door factory is turning out over 250 doors daily, and every department is in full blast.

The members of Beaconsfield Lodge, Sons of England, held their annual supper at the Deseronto house last Thursday night.

Mr. George Walker has purchased the grocery business of Mr. Robt. Berry, Main street, and has already entered upon possession.

Division Court will be held at Shannonville, Tuesday 17th inst., and at Deseronto, Wednesday, 18th inst.

A special car arrived in town last Thursday from Kingston, bringing His Grace Archbishop Cleary, and Messrs. B. W. Folger, James Swift, and C. E. L. Porteous, of that city.

The Armenia towed up the barge Puritan, loaded with 2,000 barrels of apples which will be stored in Deseronto for the winter.

The north winds which prevailed last week for several days caused low water in the Bay of Quinte. The various mills and factories were greatly inconvenienced in consequence, as they found it difficult to obtain a proper water supply for their pumps. The different drains leading to the bay have been deepened. Mr. James Whitton, of the machine shop, never remembered the water to be so low as at present.

The date for the election of five members for the council of Tyendinaga Reserve has been fixed as follows:—nominations Nov. 18th; polling Nov. 25th. A red hot contest is raging and feeling runs high. The Pow Wow party are running a ticket of their own. This party favor the abolition of elective councils and return to the ancient system of hereditary chiefs. We learn that Chiefs Solomon Loft and Isaac Powles will not seek re-election. Chief Annosothkah will be a candidate.

Several changes have recently been made in the office staff of the Rathbun Company. F. G. B. Allen will join the Central Office staff and be succeeded as timekeeper by Sidney Baker. R. C. Phillips will assist Mr. H. B. Rathbun in the shipping department and Chas. Crawford will go back to his old post in the office of the shipping department. H. Brisco goes to the Big Store office. G. H. Kirkpatrick of the Big Store returns to Kingston to go into business with his father. J. C. Rooney, of Campbellford will be in the office of the Chemical Works. L. G. Booth, of Gananoque, succeeds Mr. Brisco in the ledger department of the Central Office.

There has been a general fitting in progress during the past two weeks. F. H. Sims has moved into his lately purchased residence on Mill street, and F. D. Burdett takes Mr. Sims' old home on Dundas street. Robert Berry, having purchased George Walker's frame house on Thomas street west, has removed thither. George Walker now occupies the house over his grocery, Main street. W. W. Foster takes G. Walker's brick house, corner of Green and Thomas streets. A. C. Barnett has moved into part of the Greatrix terrace. Thos. O'Neill now occupies the house lately vacated by W. Bick. Mr. Gould takes the house on Green street vacated by Mr. Barnett. James Mackie has moved into his new house on St. George street. J. Chapman has taken S. Cronk's house on Maple Avenue. Mr. Cronk's family going into the house lately occupied by J. Dibble. Joseph Maricle takes the house vacated by Mr. Chapman, Brant street.

Morven.

The weather is somewhat warmer than it was.

We had a small shower of rain early Monday morning. It seemed to come in streaks. Some places there were pools of water lying in the road, while in other places the dust was barely laid. We are greatly in need of a heavy shower of rain.

Farmers are busily engaged ploughing, and hauling grain to market.

A rather quiet, but nevertheless pleasing event took place at the parsonage last Wednesday, when Mr. Frank Snider and Miss Smith, of Violet, were united in wedlock. How is it that outsiders come in here and get married, while we apparently are making no move in that direction?

Mr. Frank Romboigh has evidently been thinking this matter over as he, last week, took unto himself a wife in the person of Miss Amey, of Napanee. They have gone

Miss Inglisbee and John McMullen, brother of the bride, was right hand man. After the ceremony the happy couples, amid hearty congratulations from a large circle of friends, drove to the residences of Mr. McMullen and Mr. O'Rourke where sumptuous repasts were awaiting them. The brides received a number of handsome presents. They are cousins and two of our most excellent and charming young ladies. A dance took place at Mr. McMullen's in the evening when about a hundred were present.

Rev. Mr. Gallagher, of Pittsburgh, gave a lecture in the Orange hall on the 6th of November.

A quantity of pressed hay has been shipped from here by J. Reid lately.

Mr. P. Shorey, of Newburgh, spent Sunday in town.

Mrs. Parrott, the old lady referred to in last issue, passed away peacefully on Wednesday of last week. She was 81 years of age and was a life-long resident of this place. She leaves a daughter, the wife of N. F. Snider, of Odessa.

We understand that an agreement has been arrived at between Mr. Derbyshire and the "Parsonage Committee," whereby the fine residence belonging to that gentleman becomes the "Methodist Parsonage."

The enterprising firm of Babcock & Manour, chair manufacturers, are branching out into a new line of business. They have built an addition to their factory and intend putting machinery to grind feed. They are also contemplating adding machinery for dressing lumber.

Lowe Sharpe, of the 3rd concession, has retired from farming and moved into this village.

We hear that the Young People of the church intend holding a pumpkin social next week.

The regular session of the Sixth Division Court was held last Friday, Judge Wilkinson presiding. There were but few cases, lasting but one hour.

Calder vs. Connolly, action to recover for sale of harness. Judgment for plaintiff without costs.—Jenkins vs. Fries, action to secure payment of overdue note. Judgment for plaintiff in full.—Graham vs. Priest, a case of citation for debt. Defendant ordered to pay one dollar a month till debt be paid.—Another case was laid over on account of absence of parties interested.

The excitement over the voters' list revision has died out and we venture the prediction that the last has been heard of it till January when the fight at the polls will indicate the mind of the electorate on all this bitterness and unsubstantiated charges against honest and capable officials.

Andrew Wycott has leased the Royal Hotel to Robt. Bennett, of this place.

Where is the constable? The streets these past few evenings have been controlled by rowdism. A scene rarely seen outside of populated centres was witnessed the other evening—a woman reeling up street under the influence of liquor.

The Napanee Express.

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, NOV. 13, 1901.

From the Conservative press we often hear that the Irish are not fit for self-government, and the recent riots and disturbances are quoted in support of the old assertion. In turn it might very well be asserted that the Irish are more fit to look after their own affairs than the Canadians, inasmuch as they have not yet signified their assent to being ruled by bribery and corruption.

THE elections in some of the States on Tuesday of last week were indecisive in character and their result as influencing the Presidential campaign is not easy to sum up. The Democrats lost ground in New York City, owing to Tammany, but gained among the farming community because of their freer trade policy. This looks well for Mr. Cleveland becoming the Democratic candidate, as he is the most pronounced tariff reformer among his party. The New York Evening Post, independent, sums up the situation as follows:—

"The 'moral effect' of the elections is distinctly favorable to the triumph of the Democratic party in the Presidential contest, under the leadership of Cleveland and upon a sound-money and tariff-reform platform."

SOME wiseacre said the other day that protection in the States was not yet dead. He might as well have told people that Queen Anne was no more. So much has the idea of protection gained ascendancy among our neighbors that even the Farmers Alliance could not draw up a platform that did not look to affording the farmers a huge slice of protection. The protection sought was also so very glaring that most people soon began to see its folly. Free silver, cheap money, as a corner-stone, and a recommendation that the Treasury should lend money on farm products, were planks that did not commend themselves to intelligent citizens. The farmers evidently are not so clever at putting forward their schemes to benefit themselves as are the manufacturers. When the manufacturer seeks protection the ostensible reason put forth is that it is to build up the country. His own particular ends are hidden away out of sight, and the farmers and others are hoodwinked. The Farmers' Alliance as an association has lost ground, as was shown by the recent elections, chiefly because of the weakness of their platform. Largely the American and Canadian farmer has yet to learn that protection is not for them. Their ears may be tickled with high-sounding promises, and their imaginations may be fired by such "patriotic" phrases as "Canada for the Canadians"; but when it comes to actual legislation the farmer is left out in the cold; some little acknowledgment that he has a vote may be made, to keep the word of promise to his ear; but when it comes to protection that raises the prices of what he has to sell, he finds the promise broken to his hopes. He is left to pay the protective duty on his binding twine, his machinery, and his clothes, and is left in the lurch with regard to any increase of prices for what he has to sell. It is excusable for a manufacturer or a merchant to vote for his own interests, or for what at any rate does not harm him; but for the farmer to vote himself into paying large sums unnecessarily seems such utter folly, that one wonders sometimes at his folly. No other class of men in

The Ottawa Free Press says:—"While Mr. Abbott is telling his friends that 'the difficulty between Mr. Chapleau and himself has been satisfactorily adjusted,' Mr. Chapleau is giving forth shouts of triumph claiming that he has brought the premier to his knees, and compelled him 'to render justice to Quebec' which in the Chapleauite tongue means giving Mr. Chapleau everything he demands. Mr. Abbott is to remain premier by the grace and favor of Mr. Chapleau, who will control three or four departments instead of one. He is to have the department of agriculture—including the patent office, the immigration service and the experimental farm stations, under his personal control, and will control the state and public works departments through Messrs. Oulmont and Angers. Such is the report Mr. Chapleau gives of the result of his latest strike. It is to be a Chapleau-Abbott ministry, and the system of management which prevailed in the printing bureau under Mr. Senecal is to be extended to three or four of the public departments. Mr. Abbott will find it awkward to deny that Mr. Chapleau's statement of the situation is correct."

Gents.—My daughter had a severe cold and injured her spine so she could not walk, and suffered very much. I called in our family physician; he pronounced it inflammation of the spine and recommended MINARD'S LINIMENT to be used freely. 3 bottles cured her. I have used your MINARD'S LINIMENT for a broken breast; it reduced the inflammation and cured me in 10 days.

A WONDERFUL BOOK.

SHEPP'S PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE WORLD.

This book is unique, interesting, attractive and beautiful. The preface tells:

How the idea was conceived by the Messrs. Shepp, and the plans arranged to photograph the world and publish this volume.

How they fought against obstacles and overcame difficulties, to secure photographs of the Russian mines and prisoners in far-off Siberia.

How photographs of Palaces and Prisons, Sovereigns and Peasants were successfully secured.

How weeks, yes months, were spent in rainy, misty, and foggy countries, waiting for clear weather to obtain good results.

How arrangements were made with Art Associations for the privilege of obtaining direct photographs of all the great paintings and statuary, in the various galleries and cathedrals of the world. This is a privilege rarely accorded to any one.

How hardships were endured in the interiors of China, India, Arabia, Turkey, and Africa, to obtain photographs of the actual life among the natives in these semi-barbarous countries.

Closing with how nearly $100,000 was spent in producing a book of photographs, the like of which has never been attempted.

Each photograph is a gem. The printed description underneath each of the two hundred and fifty photographs is the very pith of history and information. Mr. James Galbraith has secured the Guelph Agency; yesterday, his first day of canvassing, he secured twenty orders. He says he has only to show the book to sell it. We understand that agents generally are taking from fifty to two hundred orders a week. The beauty and utility of the volume cannot be believed until seen. It is then understood at a glance; it is a marvel of cheapness as well as beauty.

We are glad to know that our enterprising Publishing Co., viz the World Publishing Co., of Guelph, are to issue the Canadian edition. Agents are wanted. Address: World Publishing Co., Guelph, Ont., Canada.

"The Guelph Mercury" of Nov. 3rd, speaking of this book says:—"Shepp's photographs of the world is a splendid work, containing 250 photographs of the principal places in the world, it is an excellent work, as an evidence of this it may be mentioned that Mr Galbraith has in two days taken orders for 45 copies."

PROMPT, POTENT AND PERMANENT results always come from the use of Milburn's Aromatic Quinine Wine.

A windmill don't save a farmer's wife any work, and that's one reason why some farmers buy 'em.

One reason why we allus feel so mean after a horse trade is because we know that we intended to skin the other fellow clean down to the heels.

Barley rules here and will continue to do so until closer trade relations are established. The Empire's reports of yesterday quote No. 3 at 45 cents and No. 2 at 48 cents in this city. The same paper gives the price at Buffalo as 80 to 85 cents for good to best Canada.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. For children teething its value is incalculable. It relieves the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures Wind Colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for children teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25¢ a bottle. Be sure and ask for MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, and take no other. Ely

I've allus heered more or less about political economy, but I didn't know what it was till last year, when they turned a feller out of office in our town who had stole $3,000 and put in another who couldn't find but $2,900 to lay his hands on.

PREPARING FOR THE CONTEST!

SCORES OF APPLICATIONS COMING IN!

Only the Ladies of Canada can Compete!

A SPECIAL FEATURE OF THE COMPETITION!

Our Canadian ladies are already preparing for the great Diamond Dye Competition; they are going into this work with a vim and earnestness that is truly surprising; and it is a well known fact, that whenever the ladies enter upon any work in this way, it is always well done. Of course the great novelty of the work, and the wide field of operation opened up by this unique competition, will be the means of drawing in hundreds of ardent workers, who, under ordinary circumstances, would hesitate before committing themselves to trouble and unremunerative work.

In this liberal and highly commendable contest, inaugurated by the proprietors of Diamond Dyes, the ladies have an agent to work with, which develops immense possibilities, and produces results which are pleasing to the eye. The great variety of work in the various classes open for competition does not by any means take in all that can be accomplished by the celebrated Diamond Dyes. It is, however, in the well regulated, economical and happy homestead that Diamond Dyes are justly appreciated, and considered to be indispensable helps and aids. As season succeeds season, the wise wife and mothers think of the wearing apparel belonging to herself, husband and children, and realize the important fact that it can be fitted for wear once more through the use of Diamond Dyes. The material is still good, but perhaps too light in color, and, it may be faded with wear and exposure to sun, can all be re-dyed in some fashionable dark color, or make a lovely shade of jet or blue-black. It just amounts to this, as a lady remarked, "for a trifling sum you can have the summer wardrobe of man, woman or child transformed into new and stylish articles for autumn and winter wear."

Already scores of wives and mothers have sent in the necessary application form intimating their intention of competing in the great "Diamond Dye Competing" scheme. They know exactly the particular line of work they can excel in, and feel that the proposed competition scheme embraces in its ample scope just such work as they can accomplish.

Within the past three weeks ladies in the United States have written to us, asking if they will be allowed to compete. We wish it distinctly understood that this "Diamond Dye competition" is only open to the ladies of Canada. However, we devoutly trust that our fair American cousins will, in due time, have a competition of the same kind presented to them.

A very special feature of this "Diamond Dye Competition" is the fact of its being FREE to all competitors. Notwithstanding the very great cost of its inauguration, and employment of extra help for the proper conducting of the scheme, no fees are exacted from the ladies for the privilege of competing, and all goods sent in for exhibition remain the property of the makers, and are to be returned free of charge to them. It will thus be seen that every possible aid is extended to the ladies to enable them to take large cash prizes without incurring any expense.

The retail druggists of the Dominion, from ocean to ocean, highly commend the scheme, and predict an interesting and profitable time for the ladies. Hundreds of letters received from these druggists are full of assurance of kind support; and each druggist has

I take this opportunity to thank my patrons for the liberal support they have given me, and who have given me the support of their money in my business. I am sure that I will continue to receive their support and patronage, and I will continue to give them the best of my service.

It is the fact that I did not put down the price of Coal, why is it that Coal in Toronto in the winter of 1890 was 5.50 and in Naperville, Ill. in 1891 it was $6 in Toronto and $5.00 in Naperville.

My Coal comes from the Wilkesbarre District, and is of superior quality, pronounced by those who know, to be as good as Anthracite coal as there is in Pennsylvania. Last year I was handicapped from the fact that I had only one chance to get in the coal market, while this year I had the chance of six firms to do them, and, therefore, have a better quality of coal than I had last year, and am prepared to sell as cheap as any other dealer in town.

to the world would allow allegiances to party to bleed them so freely as do the farmers. But, and herein lies the art of his rulers, the bleeding is done so systematically, and so constantly, and in so many ways, that many farmers do not believe they are bled at all, and continue firm in the belief that all arguments to the contrary are Grit lies and disloyalty.

CAMPBELL IS ALL RIGHT.
 Chatham, Ont., Nov. 9.—On the opening of the court this morning Mr. J. C. Patterson, of Windsor, for the petitioner in Kent County Election case announced on looking over the evidence it had been decided not to proceed in the matter. The court then dismissed the case with costs.

MIR. WATSON SUSTAINED.
 WINNIPEG, Nov. 9.—A Portage la Prairie despatch says:—"The Marquette election protest was dismissed with costs to day. No evidence was brought forward and the popular member retains his seat. Mr. Watson was present at the court room when Judges Dubuc and Bain made known their decision, and was warmly congratulated by his Liberal friends, as well as by a number of Conservatives who stand by Manitoba's only representative."

HON. MR. GIBSON UNSEATED FOR LINCOLN.
 St. Catharines, Nov. 9.—The Lincoln election protest came up here to-day. The court room was crowded with spectators who expected to hear some interesting political revelations, but they were disappointed, as the proceedings were tame and quiet. The first witness called was W. B. Gilliland, barrister. His evidence was merely to establish that Geo. Longley, teamster, of this city, was an active committee in Mr. Gibson's interest. The second witness called was Alvin Smith, farmer, from Thorold township, Welland county. His evidence unseated Gibson. He swore that on the night previous to the election Geo. Longley, of this city, drove to his house and offered him and his brother James, of the same place, four dollars each to stay out of the county on election day. After some dickering with Longley the Smiths struck a bargain and accepted $12 to stay away from the polls. The evidence was not denied. The Judges summed up the case and decided that corrupt practices had been established, he thereupon declared the seat vacant. Mr. Gibson though suffering from an accident received by his horses running away was in the court room.

As the Montreal Gazette seems very anxious to find some additional work for the Quebec royal commission it might be suggested that the commission enquire into Mr. Chapleau's sources of wealth. That gentleman announces that he is a director of the Banque du Pays Bas, a wealthy Belgian institution. To qualify himself for such a position he must own a great many shares. Where did the money come from? It has been repeatedly asserted by the Tory papers that Mr. Mercier is a wealthy man, but the enquiry by the royal commission has dispensed of that fiction. In order to pay for some stock purchased in France Mr. Mercier was obliged to raise money by the very unscientific method known as discounting a promissory note, while Mr. Chapleau seems to glory in his wealth. Why not make Mr. Chapleau, Mr. Abbott and Sir Charles Tupper explain the origin and growth of their millions?

Mr. Chapleau started into federal politics ten years ago as secretary of state, and after a decade of devotion he is secretary of state still. This reminds us of a story told about General Lindsay at the time Montreal was a garrison town. The troops had been turned out to witness the bestowal of long service stripes upon a soldier, who had put in 21 years in the ranks. The General made a little speech, pointing out how, by attention and obedience, a soldier could rise to any rank. "Look at this man, for instance," said the General waxing eloquent, "twenty one years ago he was only a bombardier, and now—"what is he now?" he whispered to the man's colonel. "A bombardier," was the reply, "and now," went on General Lindsay, "he is a bombardier still."—Free Press.

SIGNIFICANT MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.
 LONDON, Nov. 6.—The Conservative press announced that the Labour candidates in the municipal elections were everywhere defeated. An analysis of the returns, on the contrary, shows that Labour men carried thirty seats in England, some districts returning two at the head of the polls. The general results favor the Radicals. The elections were fought on party lines chiefly and forecast a triumph for the Gladstonians in the coming parliamentary elections.

They poulticed her feet and poulticed her head, and blistered her back till 'twas smirking and red, Tried tonics, elixirs, pain-killers and salves, (Though grandma declared it was nothing but a nerve.) The poor woman thought she must certainly die, Till "Favorite Prescription" she happened to try— No wonder its praises so loudly they speak; She grew better at once, and was well in a week.

The torturing pains and distressing nervousness which accompany, at times, certain forms of female weakness, yield like magic to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and adapted to the delicate organization of woman. It allays and subdues the nervous symptoms and relieves the pain accompanying functional and organic troubles. Guarantee printed on bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Times' London cable says:—"The sweeping triumph in Cork of the patriots over the Tories and their partners, the so-called Parnellites, somewhat exceeds expectations. From Cork 1,200 was telegraphed me as the probable plurality, and that by a rather sanguine man. When it was realized that some 600 Tories voted for Mr Redmond, one can understand what a poor little faction it is that is filling Ireland with drunken clamor, hurling paving stones into crowds from the roofs of houses throwing dynamite bombs, insulting ministers of religion and forming plots to murder leading citizens. After this smashing defeat it is doubtful if the Tories will put up the money for any more Parnellite contests."

A Sea Voyage.
 A sea voyage is an expensive and extensive prescription, especially when equally good results as regards health, are to be had by simply taking Burdock Blood Bitters according to directions. It is a specific for dyspepsia, cleanses the blood, regulates the liver, bowels and kidneys and removes all impure matter from the system.

The protest against the return of Lieut-Col. O'Brien, M. P. for Muskoka, has been dismissed. Probably there were no just grounds for filing it, or perhaps the reformers were not anxious to disturb the only Conservative who had sufficient courage to stand the hisses and jeers of his own political friends by voting against the Cochrane whitewashing outrage. If there were a few more Conservatives like Col. O'Brien the reign of boodles would soon be brought to an end.

A FASCINATING STORY.

CHAPTER XVI. AN UNFORTUNATE WOOING.

Pinnie has a home. He soon enters the office of Conrad North, broker, and while performing slight tasks and going out on simple commissions, he is rapidly acquiring a business education.

Helen Lamont alone holds the secret of the vault, and her cunning wit has revealed the fact that Pinnie's first name is Hubert; and that in some close tie that old man is bound up in the destiny of her protegee.

And she, too, has a secret—two of them; for the manifest design of Spanero to sue for her hand is known in her breast, though too repulsive a fact to be spoken even in meditative thought. But the evident devotion of North, whom she has seen but three times, and but twice practically, is not so regarded.

She was prepared to hear his suit—but felt that while he may have regarded the matter for weeks, it was too sudden to herself. And when he came to her, as he did, the method of his wooing was not fortunate. The old, old way, of tender sighs, of little attentions which speak of chivalry, and of warm glances which make the heart beat faster, are still the most successful. Conrad North, with his fine form and open face, his strong eyes and chiselled mouth, his social breeding and splendid bearing, loved the girl truly and profoundly. It was a clear case. His judgment, his feelings, all his activities were involved. Her sweet beauty, molded in such dignity; her queenly form, and her evident genius in thought and art—all dwell with him in busy hour and idle moment.

Indeed he was very seriously in love. And when persons like Conrad North love in that way, it is a life matter—unless the revealing of fruition unveils a terrible disappointment, and even then the effects are disastrous.

His mother was aware of this, and sought only to moderate his affection, while hoping for a successful issue to his suit.

It was the strong judgment, the balance, of Conrad's mind that made his situation perilous—because such people are not apt to catch anchor twice. And Conrad North knew well the position that he occupied. The point which he did not well understand was that Miss Lamont had not known him as he had her, and he was therefore too precipitate. But the general situation of the affair led to the rather remarkable step he felt himself compelled to take to win his cause. A Van der Nort rarely failed in an undertaking.

A man who can sell futures by the ship-load, without moving a muscle, is not always the least tremulous when he storms the divine citadel of a woman's heart. So foolish was he that, unknown to Miss Lamont, he had even sought her pathway home, and followed her for many blocks—a thing he would rather have burned all his ledgers than have it known or suspected of a Van der Nort. Hence, from his very anxiety he was unfitted for wooing. The passion was too overmastering.

On the evening when the assembly was to meet with the "De Briggses," Mrs. North was to come after Helen in the family carriage. The "De Briggses" were "swell people," and Helen would not have ventured out again without some one to stand sponsor to her.

What was her surprise, that evening, to see Conrad drive up to the landing in a light carriage. He stated that his mother was suffering from a severe headache, and would be unable to attend the assembly. Would Miss Lamont kindly consent that he should take her to the De Briggs mansion?

Helen was dumfounded. At first, it is true, there was a little flutter about the outside of her heart—for a moment; but the cold palor of her face told too well to Conrad North that she resented the invitation as an improper one.

"Mr. North, I—I cannot put you to so much trouble."

"No, I'm trouble, Miss Lamont. I was going myself."

Perhaps the reader is not a dweller in the city and does not realize that the proposition of Mr. North was not in "good form." He certainly must have been out of his head at the time.

"Mr. North, perhaps I am not right about the matter, not being accustomed to your social customs; but I think this is not right—did your mother provide for me in this way?"

"No, Miss Lamont, she sent her regrets only. But I have an object in having you drive with me, or perhaps I would have looked at it differently—and then you must know that our assemblies are not like evening parties."

Helen liked his freedom of speech well enough, and in her mind felt that Conrad North, the trespasser, was superior to Conrad the host—under the spirea tree. People will love the weak at times and turn their backs upon the strong. A mother carries the crippled child near to her heart.

"I will be very happy to ride with you, Mr. North."

And so for an hour she rode with him in the then dimly lighted streets of the city.

"Miss Lamont, did you meet the committee to-day?"

"Yes, but I supposed that you were one of the executive committee of the academy."

"Yes, I am, but I could not meet with them to-day. Did they make a proposition to you? Of course, I ask as a committee-man."

This was making love with a vengeance! Young ladies do not usually mix up love and business to any great extent.

"They did," she replied. "It was very kind; and I recognized the fact that to give me from a feeling of obligation they hid their generosity under the cloak of purchasing my picture at an enormous price."

"May I ask how that was?"

"Certainly. They gave me five hundred dollars for the 'Angel of Sympathy' and orders for two more pictures at the same price."

"And you are to go to Europe to study?" asked Conrad, as if he did not know of this before it was suggested to the girl!

"For two long years—but it made me so happy that I went home and had a good cry."

"And you accepted?" he asked coolly.

She was nettled at this. As the kindness of the committee was being told she bent her dark eyes upon his dimly lighted face, expecting to see both surprise and admiration. Could she then have known what he knew about the matter she would have understood his manner; but it might have delayed her trip to Europe! She did not know, and so she swallowed her disappointment and said:

"I did. That was right, was it not?"

"It certainly was, Miss Lamont."

"I trust their faith in me is justified. I will work hard to win their commendation."

"Then we will send over a committee to prevent you from working too hard." Then it was his turn. He looked into her eyes, and she blushed. But it was all right. He did not see it. The condition of the street lights would not permit of it.

"You will soon leave us then; and many who have learned to—to—to respect and admire you, will see you only in dreams."

This was a very bad shot. People do not usually have dreams over those whom they simply admire and respect.

All that she could think of as proper to say was an exclamation, with a defensive accent—"Mr. North!"

But the poor fellow was in for it—and could only stumble forward. So he continued: "Yes, I am one of those who will miss you—and mother is another—yes, another friend who will keep you in mind."

Miss Helen Lamont was a lady, and a generous lady at that, and her good breeding lifted her over any disposition to notice the stumbling of her companion. She cleverly replied, however: "I know that when I am alone, in a world of strangers, I shall look back upon these good friends with little less than worship."

"Probably you do not remember our first meeting, Miss Lamont."

"I remember—and shall not forget it."

"From that time till to-day I have been searching for you; and now that I have found you, I am to lose you."

"Mr. North, please do not speak of it in that way. Had we better not return?"

The apparent indifference of her manner was a sore disappointment to him. But he turned his eyes inward and rose above himself.

"Miss Lamont, it is better to speak of such things if we feel them. It seems as though I had known you longer than these few weeks. We have talked of you much at home, and other circumstances, which you can recall, draw us together as friends."

"I feel honored, Mr. North. To have you share the failure of the robbery was the fact that Finnie had been installed in that very house, and in the broker's office. He naturally connected the events together. But with all his secret agencies, he could not ascertain the underlying cause of these events. Conflicting thoughts were running through his brain—and this was a rare circumstance with him. All men who are thoroughly bad men, except in the line of sensuality, are in a certain dark sense great men! The elements of greatness, taken singly, are clearly defined. Courage, coolness, continuity, calculation, comprehensiveness, and the elements which make up sagacity, all must be a part of the development of a strong bad man. A house-breaker who does not comprehend multiple emergencies and sequences would be a failure. A master-spirit in crime must be Napoleonic in his combinations on the secret chess-board of evil.

A man with the qualities of some villains, and, added thereto, good, brave, generous and reverential regard for justice, will be a great man. This Spanero was great in villainy. His life was a problem of darkness.

And now this man loved—

Bah! In the dark, damp cellar, where noisome vermin creep, foul odors taint the air, and poison germs whiten the walls—there a seed falls and germinates. In sickly whiteness it grows, and stretches out its slender stems and bleached leaves to some shadowy window whence comes the thin light—yearning for better things without knowing it—but all in vain.

So, in the prison house of Feeling, amid the brutal passions, that seed which in the light springs into beauty still struggles into an unconscious being and lifts its nerveless arms to a throne it has never seen.

And thus Spanero loved.

Ah!

But the sickly feeling was scarcely recognized by himself. He knew that into the life which made crime its being, a new element had lifted a feeble band. But he only sought to feel the new feeling on the husks of evil—as before.

He figured on Helen's monetary value as a genius. And yet, at this time, with Helen on the ocean, seeking Italia's cloudless skies, had she been a beggar, he would have sought her. Spanero's criminal life had been a brigandage upon the commercial rights of others—lust had never moved him to criminal conquest—it was not a passion in his nature. And hence, while foul deeds had marked his course, the lower and bestial appetite had never obscured the clear field of his generalship. There are such men. The condition is necessary even to an evil greatness.

He had lost his balance through the rare beauty of Helen Lamont. She was no longer in the workshop. She was not even under the shadow of his control. She had not only gone to a land where he did not dare follow, but she had gone in the company of, and under the guardianship of, a lawyer by the name of Wilkins, whom he hated and dreaded!

"D—n him!" After which tender expression he mused again.

"If God doesn't remove him, I must!"

And with this expletive, Spanero viciously punched the coals with the poker and jumped from his chair.

In the midst of his confused dissatisfaction a smile broke across his face. And then he stopped in his walk to and fro and smiled again—and laughed.

"It was a royal thought."

He said it aloud. His perturbed thoughts gathered up the threads of that last meeting with the young woman:

"The hospital idea was perfection. Henceforth I am not satisfied with escaping the French pistols—I am to be a holy man—a miracle of goodness—bring forth the holy water and the altar cloth! Miss Lamont will never take Spanero, but she will welcome the great archdeacon of mercy and builder of hospitals! She will come like a rainbow? Jesu, but how she did plead for the little stump-foot. What a power weakness has over some people! There is no paradox."

And so the idea of his building a hospital as an investment on Cupid's account grew on him. He struck the idea in chaffing the girl—but he finished up with the impression that the building of a hospital would be just the thing to do—for Helen. At their last meeting he succeeded in making the girl think that the action of the academy was largely due to his exertions. He then called her attention to the project of the hospital and trifling with the girl, took her advice upon the matter! Now, what were fifty thousand dollars to him beside that transcendent genius and marvelous beauty?

Thus weighing lucre against love, he seated himself again. But soon he broke out afresh. "Gad, but that legal friend of hers

"Yes, I thank you, I thank you, I do. You was me good, you was."

Spanero left her and went to his private room. He did not seem to enjoy being good to any extraordinary extent. His brutal nature sickened like a northern plant in a bake-oven. He broke away from it as soon as possible.

"Good God. How much of this can I stand, even for her?"

But the condition was that he could stand a good deal. The fact was he loved. He has said so before, and now repeat it. In his miserable, greedy, villainous breast, where the beating canker called a heart was located, there had been born the desire for a woman—and day by day the fire of this longing grew warmer and more assertive, until it was becoming his master.

And, therefore, he immediately put into being his plans for building up a hospital and a character at the same time.

It is not our purpose to detail the secret, the unseen history of the creation of one of those monuments of charity in one of our great cities. It is now long past and its beautiful and lovely mission has been sweetly accomplished. It is enough. These are God's mysterious ways of performing wonders—of using the wicked to his purposes.

Long ere another summer had brought the green grass and the bright flowers, many a thankful heart had passed beneath the portals of a new hospital in Boston.

And there had been other changes—changes which mark not only the seasons' perpetual round, but placed milestones in the lives of our now separated people.

The little Gael was "strutting around" as happy as could be expected, with two good, handsome feet—and would you believe it—with a splendid, shapely artificial arm!—one that would move and wear a glove!

Finnie was making progress in his studies and "filling out" bodily.

But there was another face which grew vacant and wistful. It was thin and transparent. The eye was getting deeper in the socket; a cough gave warning of danger. The moist hand and flushed cheek told its story of approaching trouble. Every day a thinner form left a mother's side to bury care in those massive ledgers, and returned at night with a soft-spoken word of love and a caress, but with a passionless spirit.

Love had not been to him a pastime—nor a dream. His rounded form was so changed that scarcely any one who had known him a year before would recognize Conrad North, in that older, thinner, silent invalid. Then the doctors and friends began to whisper that Conrad must go abroad or die. But his poor mother knew the secret, and if her tears could have brought to him the sweet remedy for which he yearned, it would have been richly purchased.

And in one of the many little notes which crossed the ocean to Helen at Florence there were words like these:

"* * * The birds are singing just as sweetly this spring as they ever have in the years that are past. The jessamine has put forth its leaves and honeysuckles are in bud. But we are not happy. Conrad works harder than ever, and is more quiet than he was in other years. He reads your little letters, and then, without a word to his mother, goes off to his ledgers. We long for that summer to come which will bring you back to us."

ENORMOUS WHEAT YIELD.

Winnipeg, Nov. 10.—So enormous is the yield of wheat proving to be, as threatening progresses, that dealers are revising their estimates of the total yield. A couple of dealers stated on Saturday that they believed the yield would run up to thirty million bushels. The C. P. R. is sending out a train load of grain almost every hour.

The czar of Russia probably has his own troubles as well as we commoner mortals. Where we have the advantage in such troubles as dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, bad blood and the like is in being able to procure easily a perfect remedy in Burdock Blood Bitters nature's grand restorative tonic and purifier.

A BROTHER'S LETTER.

A certain witty young Englishman has a young sister by the name of Jessie, who was sent to a fashionable school for ladies, according to London Tid-Bits. He said when she left home he wondered if she would acquire the airs and affectations that certain young ladies that he knew had by attending the fashionable seminary. After being there a year he began to flatter himself that his sister was proof against such nonsense, when he received a letter signed "Jessica," instead of Jessie, as heretofore. In answering he wrote something like this: "Dear Sister Jessica,—Your welcome letter received. Mamma and papa are well. Aunt Maryica and Uncle Georgia started for Glasgowa yesterday. Have bought a new horse; it is a beauty;

...the person, Mr. North, to have you speak so."

"Then I will not delay the word, which I may utter under the protection of friendship—that I love you."

"No, please do not say that, not now."

"Yes, it is better to say it. I ask nothing in return as yet; but I am happier and freer to have said it. I will return you to your home now."

"You pain me, inexcessibly," she said in a low voice, as full of feeling as her own beautiful painting.

"Yes, I know, I know," he replied. "It is unfortunate that I have not the command of language to tell you in warm words the history of the past few weeks. I cannot—nor would another understand so suddenly."

"I think—yes, I think I understand."

"No, Miss Helen, it is impossible. Mother does—she has seen it all, and at her hands I can always find consolation."

This was most painful to the girl. Here he was, assuring her that he would ask nothing from her at the present time—and then bewailing his utterly cast-away condition. She saw the situation and wisely said nothing. He continued:

"All I ask is that during your long absence you teach your heart to look upon me as a patient watcher of your star, believing in your destiny—and if you ever paint an angel of love, as you have an angel of sympathy, let me be somewhere in your heart when the 'them' is revealed."

"Mr. North!"

"Yes."

"You take for granted that I do not love you. It is true. But amid all the struggles of a working soul, whose wings are yet unused to flying, how could I suddenly awaken to a new passion? How could I let all my life hopes and pleasant dreams, which all artists have, fly away, and be lost in a new cloud, however bright it may be? It is too sudden. Then, do I not see in you and your dear mother two sacrificing friends? If to love you would be wrong you and her, how cruel would it be to so betray you! Let us bury the matter now—for a little time, at least. You do not know the barrier which lies between us."

"Barrier," he asked.

"Yes, for to pretend thus suddenly to answer the demands of your regard, would be base and mercenary upon my part. You are too great, too—too—may I say, good—in a broad sense—for me to permit the work girl at the art factory to drag you down!"

"Miss Lamont!"

"No, no, don't. Please don't—my heart is burning now, lest I should be so base!"

"That it what mother said—that I could never get beyond that barrier in your character. It is a noble sentiment—but it is fatal."

"No, Mr. North; no. Let me have time to rise—so that my wings may not be so weak."

"Yes," he replied, slowly, "but a love that is not intuitive is quite impossible; is it not so?"

They had reached her home. He took her hand.

"I fear it is. But I shall remember your instructions about the new picture." And then she smiled, a smile of the face of beauty which was born of hope and tenderness.

She withdrew her hand, and they alighted.

Helen was not sure but that she had promised more than she could fulfill.

Yet there is that about the first assault upon the citadel which carries a mystic power with it.

Helen almost loved, and that carried infinite possibilities with it.

"Before we part," urged Conrad, "give me a word of encouragement."

"Mr. North, I now feel a gratitude toward you which overweighs any other feeling. Let me say that to have you ask a favor of me seems wrong—that I should rather ask of you. So please let me have time and I will try to be just and true to both of us. This is not love—but it is close by."

He shook her hand warily, both smiled pleasantly and he departed. Helen thought that she had confessed. Her words did not say it—but it was her mind and not her heart which had spoken.

She loved the man.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE HOSPITAL IDEA WAS PERFECTION.

It was a miserable, misty day in Boston. A heavy fog filled the city and the air was chilly with September's early warning of winter.

Spanero sat in his office, at the same old desk where he had seen him before. The Spaniard was low-spirited.

A certain raid on a certain mansion had failed. Why, Spanero had not been able to inform him, owing to a difficulty with Stub—which difficulty had no existence in fact.

who is just married—I will have him thrown over the taffrail into the sea. I'd give a thousand dollars to be on that committee that sent her abroad—gad. Why not bet that's it. I will be.

"There's web-foot. If I could do something for her she would fill forty pages with praises and a tub full of tears. Mother of God, but I'll fix it."

He opened the door, stepped across the hall, and entered the school. He returned with Minnie Webb. She was not quite the same as when we last saw her. Her eyes were red as with weeping. She was now truly alone in the world. Her angel of light was on the ocean, and years lay between them. Pinnie had not forgotten her, but they were really separated by barriers difficult to pass. Her brother, for whom she had cared for so long, had been buried within the week. And now, she did not even have a burden to love and lean upon!

It was true that when Pinnie had not called upon her—on her way home—which he did with some circumspection—he did write her delightful and delicate little notes, the construction of which it would be base treason to reveal. And then how often and how earnestly she would write to him, when all other resources failed her, that he must never come to the school, because she knew that he would never get out alive!

When the girl and the master entered the room Spanero turned suddenly upon her, as if to speak to her in his usually harsh tones. He immediately dropped his impatient manner, and in a voice as smooth as the—breathing of a shell—to the ears of the girl—bade her sit down and "rest." The girl, with surprise on her face, obeyed.

Spanero tumbled a book for a moment, hitched his chair, cleared his throat, and entered upon a dramatic performance in which he was clearly inexperienced.

"Miss Webb," he said, at last, when he had planned his campaign, "I suppose I have been very cross and stern with you at times. I—long and painful period—I am not always so. I have been unkind to you, my lass."

"No, sir; not as I think now of," said the girl, with a terrible untruth laid on the altar of a female heart. Then opening her gray-blue eyes wider, as if seeking for something good to say, she added in clear Gaelic accents:

"You iss paying me more as you was—I iss more than I work to I year."

To this he replied with skillful and pleasing tenderness.

"Well, girl, I am a hard man, but sometimes I think better than I do. Now I have often thought—and here his skill deserted him—"of that foot of yours—the one that is turned."

That was a bad stroke. The girl's eyes opened very wide. She looked down at the shapeless web of leather. It was too sudden. Her lids dropped, and then the hot tears rushed from their fountains, and the utmost effort to hide her white northern face would not suppress the tide of grief—the cry had gone forth!

Spanero turned to throw the poker at her, but he did not. He became dramatic.

"Child, I am a brute! I am not used to being kind. I don't know how. I am going to have Helen teach me!"

That caused the ebb tide to set upward.

"Dry your tears, my child, and listen to me. I am very rich, and if I should use a little of that money to get the best surgeon in Boston to look at your foot, and he said he could set it straight very easily, would you let him—at my expense?"

Little Winnie Webb ceased crying. Instantly she thought of how proudly she could walk before Pinnie! Only those irrepressible socks would not down. She looked up to her master, with eyes still swimming in tears, with a surprise and gratitude which no human language has yet been able to express. No smile was on her face. It was, nevertheless, wonder. She could not speak at once.

"Well, Winifred," he said in a moment, "what do you say?"

"I—I—I—!" But it was no use. To trust her throat to another would be fatal, and bring on an avalanche of tears.

Spanero saw the helpless condition of the girl, and actually enjoyed it—artist enough to analyze the facial expression which was new to him. "Gods, but Miss Helen ought to catch an inspiration from that!"

"And again," he almost muttered aloud, "Here is a gratitude that may carry me to Florence in an envelope by the first post."

"Winifred, do not try to say more now. I forgot, in my roughness of speech, that you were but a girl. You can go to your work, and this afternoon a carriage will take you to the dispensary."

"Oh, sir, I had dreamed of this—I had dreamed it!"

"The devil you have—I mean, you don't say so!"

...have bought a new horse, it is a beauty; it is named Maudica, etc. Your affectionate brother, Samica." The next letter was simply signed Jessie."

LORD MAYOR'S BANQUET

IMPORTANT SPEECH BY PREMIER SALISBURY.

Not a Single Speck of Cloud upon the Horizon Foreboding War—Occupation of Egypt to Continue—Recent Events in Ireland.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—At the Lord Mayor's banquet at Guildhall last evening Lord Salisbury in the course of his address commented upon the legislation of the past session of Parliament, which, he said, was satisfactory to the Government and acceptable to the people.

Regarding affairs in Ireland Lord Salisbury said that the work which Mr. Balfour, the Chief Secretary, had done in that country in the last four years was the best ever done by a statesman. This statement was greeted with cheers.

Continuing, His Lordship said: "What we have recently seen in Ireland has not altered our policy, nor has it made us think that a domestic legislature in Ireland would be distinguished by peace or abstinence from the use of blackthorns, or by freedom from the curse of ecclesiastical domination." [Cries of "Hear, hear!"]

As to foreign affairs, the Premier said there was not a single speck of cloud upon the horizon foreboding danger to the peace which prevails. It seemed that the spirit of nations was changing towards industrial competition. The great present question for consideration was the treaties of commerce which expire in 1892.

The Tariff Question.

The question of tariffs was engaging the attention of various nations. Though with respect to material warfare Lord Salisbury said he could hold out the most promising anticipations, so far as industrial warfare was concerned, having as a weapon protective legislation, he feared that Great Britain would occupy, for a time a peculiar isolated position. The recent elections in America had shown that the slight reaction against protection had lost its force. [Cries of "Hear, hear!"]

Continuing he said: "The one colony we are able to cite as a free trader—New South Wales—no longer wears an unspotted robe. We shall have the advantage, therefore, before long of being the Athanasius contra mundum of free trade."

England in Egypt.

Referring to Egypt he said that the Government was not responsible for the condi-

WHAT CRISPI THINKS.

He Says the Pope Would Sell His Soul to Become King.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The Martin publishes a letter written by Signor Crispi, ex-premier of Italy, denouncing the intrigues of the Vatican. Pope Leo Signor Crispi declares to be consumed with ambition to become the king of Italy, to accomplish which he would sell his soul.

The ex-premier advocates the adhesion of France to the triple alliance and declares a measure of precaution against this and other attempts similarly calamitous to the general peace and welfare should they prove successful.

PARNELL'S LETTERS.

Vim Harrington Will Make Matters Warm for William O'Brien.

DUBLIN, Nov. 10.—Timothy Harrington, in an interview, said that he had just come into the possession of the original copies of Mr. Parnell's date of the late leader's parleying with the representatives of the McCarthy faction at Bologna. These, Mr. Harrington said, he would certainly publish to-morrow.

He added that the documents would prove very unpleasant reading for Mr. O'Brien and his Liberal friends, and would confirm full his own and Mr. Redmond's statements of what occurred at Bologna, which they had made from memory.

Mr. O'Brien, Mr. Harrington declared, had wilfully suppressed letters which would vindicate Mr. Parnell's motives and explain his position. The originals would show that Mr. Parnell's object was to obtain such assurances from the Liberal leaders as would render it impossible for them to backslide from Home Rule. Mr. O'Brien really represented the Liberals in the conference, and informed them by letter from time to time of the progress of his treatings with Mr. Parnell.

The final failure of the conference was not due to the obstinacy of Mr. Parnell, as had been represented, but to the refusal of Mr. Gladstone and his colleagues to give any assurance of their adherence to former pledges. Mr. Gladstone's letter to Mr. Goschen, denying any connection with the conference, was, Mr. Harrington said, like most of the Liberal leader's utterances, difficult to understand.

Italy's Premier Talks.

MILAN, Nov. 10.—The Marquis di Rudini, the Italian premier, yesterday delivered a long speech here. Part of his speech was devoted to the financial situation of the Government, and he announced that a com-

Severe Weather in Europe—Broke the Monte Carlo Bank—Retired soldiers to be Employed as Postmen in England—Balfour and the Irish Constabulary.

DUBLIN, Nov. 10.—A.J. Balfour, who until his appointment as the successor of the late William Henry Smith as Government leader in the House of Commons, was Chief Secretary for Ireland yesterday reviewed the Royal Irish Constabulary stationed in this city. Mr. Balfour in a speech declared he was rejoiced to know that the efficiency and popularity of the force was never greater than at the present time. The men had shown zeal equally in protecting politicians from the attacks of their opponents and the solitary tenant from organized intimidation.

Mr. Balfour said that in severing his connection with Irish matters he looked back with pleasure upon the kindness he had received from all classes of the Irish people. From no class had he more kindness than from the police force. He expressed the hope that the day was not far distant when anything would be done to change the constitution of the force or to destroy the corps of which not only Ireland but the whole United Kingdom had reason to be proud.

The child was found dead in the morning, the sack being frozen to its body.

SPOILED BY A DOWNPOUR.

The Lord Mayor's Show in London Spoiled By Rain.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Lord Mayor's show was spoiled yesterday by a ceaseless downfall of rain, but the new Lord Mayor, David Evans, a Welshman, who represented the Castle Bayard ward in the Board of Aldermen, managed to enjoy himself considerably in spite of the weather. Lord Mayor Evans succeeded Lord Mayor Sir Joseph Savory. The day being also the anniversary of the birth of the Prince of Wales, and the occasion for the celebration of the silver wedding of the Emperor and Empress of Russia, patriotic Londoners have full opportunities to read of great festivities even if they are unable to take part in them. The pageant was a brilliant one and the various cars represented historic incidents.

DIVORCE IN HIGH LIFE.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Evening News of this city yesterday publishes a story which is destined to create a sensation in many circles of society. It is to the effect that Rosalie Bonaparte has filed a petition asking for a divorce from her husband, Louis Clovering Bonaparte.

This action is the outcome of a rather complicated series of matrimonial events, which had their origin in a divorce suit instituted against Rosalie by her former husband. In this last mentioned suit Louis Clovering Bonaparte was charged by the husband with having been intimate with Rosalie, and his allegations were supported by the evidence. The divorce prayed for was granted. The relations between Rosalie and Louis culminated in their marriage, the latter assuming on that occasion the name of Clovis.

Louis Clovering Bonaparte is a son of Prince Louis Lucien Bonaparte, who died a few days ago. Prince Louis Lucien, however, did not acknowledge Louis Clovering as his son until Oct. 12 last. Two days later Louis Clovering contracted a marriage with Laura Scott, and it is his living with the latter as his wife which constitutes the grounds for the divorce asked for by Rosalie.

RALEIGH'S MANSION.

Lady Hennessy Awaiting a Purchaser, as She Needs Money.

DUBLIN, Nov. 10.—The widow and children of Sir John Hennessy, the Irish statesman who died recently, are in strained circumstances. He had nothing to bequeath to them but the old family mansion at Youghal. This Lady Hennessy desires to sell. It was the residence of Sir Walter Raleigh, having been part of the property obtained by him after the confiscation of the lands of the Earl of Desmond. The garden in which Raleigh first planted the potatoes which he had brought from America comprises five acres, backed by the ancient town wall of Youghal.

Russia Preparing Her Throat.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—A Calcutta despatch says that information has come from the Afghan frontier to the effect that Russia is preparing to swallow Bokhara by abolishing the Khanate and the nominal autonomy of that state and that the real object of the Russians in stirring up trouble with the Afghans is to get a pretext for protecting Bokhara out of its independence.

A Gold Cigar Box for Wales.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Yesterday, 50th anniversary of the birth of the Prince of Wales, was celebrated quietly at Sandringham. The dramatic profession, the members of which are indebted to the Prince for many favors, took advantage of the occasion to present him with a gold cigar box. The present is a superb specimen of the goldsmith's art. It weighs one hundred ounces and the value of the metal alone is very great. The top of the box is surmounted by three ostrich feathers, forming the coat of arms of the Prince of Wales, set with diamonds.

government, and he announced that a complete equilibrium had been established in the budget. Not only were the estimated receipts fully equal to the expenditures, but even a small surplus in receipts might be expected. The Government would incur no new debts.

Referring to the recent pilgrim incidents in Rome the premier declared he was firmly opposed to the abolition or modification of the Papal guarantee law. Pilgrims, he said, might come to Italy with no fear of molestation.

The Marquis stated that Italy's relations with foreign powers were friendly and that she would do her best to strengthen peace. The various governments of Europe were inspired with great prudence and moderation. Italy should have no fear of the grouping of friendly allied powers. Italy had renewed her adhesion to the triple alliance in order to guarantee a state of affairs fitted to promote a policy of recuperation.

In conclusion the Marquis said: "We have constantly striven to dispel the distrust that France feels toward Italy. The recent participation of the French in the fetes at Nice, upon the occasion of the unveiling in that city of the statue of the Italian patriot Garibaldi, was an assurance of the renewal of the cordiality which has always been dear to Italians."

Captured a Den of Thieves.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The police of this city have distinguished themselves by capturing a den of thieves which included among its occupants ten prominent burglars who were the possessors of a large amount of stolen goods. The thieves made their headquarters in a flourishing public house, which was surrounded early this morning. The thieves drew revolvers, but the weapons were clubbed out of their hands. A search of the premises revealed secreted in the most curious places large quantities of lace, silk and jewelry. The keeper of the public house, who is supposed to be the chief of the gang, up to recently bore a good reputation and it was only by accident alone that the detectives became aware of the real business he was engaged in.

Remarkable Success of An English Gambler at Monte Carlo.

MONTE CARLO, Nov. 10.—Mr. Wells, the lucky Englishman whose punting has been such a feature here, closed his campaign against the gambling tables last night and left for England, having won £28,000. This added to the £32,000 he won in July, makes a total of £60,000.

He cleared no less than £10,000 last Friday and broke the bank five times during the evening, so that one time he had before him a pile of thousand-franc notes a foot and a half high. Unlike most other players he never lost his head, and afterwards slept soundly with his winnings under his pillow in his room in the Hotel de Paris, overlooking the Place du Casino.

Barton Re-elected for East Sydney.

SYDNEY, Nov. 10.—The Hon Edmund Barton, the Attorney-General of Mr. Dibbs' administration, has been re-elected for East Sydney by a majority of 1666 over the Labor candidate, Mr. Grantham.

What Liquidation Costs.

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—Before the master in ordinary yesterday the adjourned motion on behalf of Liquidator Lye for extra remuneration for his services as liquidator of the Central Bank came up for argument. According to the English basis the sum to be allowed to liquidators from the beginning to the close of the proceedings, allowing to 16th of present month to close the matter would be about $28,000. Of this sum $17,293 has been paid to the three liquidators, Howland, Gooderham and Lye, thus leaving about $11,267 to be paid to Mr. Lye. Mr. Lye in his profession could earn $20 a day, and it was contended that for special work of this nature he should be allowed at least $25 a day. At this rate it was contended that Mr. Lye should still receive $9561. Judgment was reserved until Monday.

The Ontario Rugby Championship.

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—One of the largest gatherings of football enthusiasts yet seen here witnessed the match between Osgoode and Varsity on the Rosedale grounds yesterday. This was the second game, the first one being a draw, each side securing 10 points. This game resulted in a victory for Osgoode Hall by a score of 18 points to 2. It will be noticed that in this match the number of points secured by Varsity was eight less than the previous one, Osgoode Hall making eight more.

The Sultan of Morocco recently sent a number of emissaries to Tourat to gain support to his pretensions to sovereignty, but the natives imprisoned the emissaries and subsequently decapitated five of them.

77 Went Down With the Vessel.

CALCUTTA, Nov. 10.—A cyclone passed over the Andaman Islands, in the Bay of Bengal. The islands form a British convict settlement to which East Indian criminals are transported. The steamer Enterprise, owned by the Indian Government and used to carry prisoners to the island and for other purposes, was at one of the ports when the cyclone set in. The vessel foundered and of her crew of 83 men only six were saved. The other 77 either went down with the steamer or were drowned while attempting to reach the shore.

The German Financial Situation.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—There is no disguising the fact that a financial panic of considerable gravity prevails here as a result of the recent startling financial disclosures, failures and the suicides attending them. (The influence of this decline of prices is already felt in London and Paris, and it would not be going too far to say that the Berlin troubles have disorganized every market in Europe.)

Sigmund Sommerfeld, the second victim, upon himself on Saturday last.

It has transpired that just as the doors of the bank of Hirschfeld & Wolff were closed a clerk of a prominent firm arrived to deposit 500,000 marks. This sum would have been sufficient to tide the bank over its difficulties.

The owners of the Jacobs sugar factory, one of the oldest establishments of the kind in Prussia, have made application for an extension of credit.

A large number of the customers of the great banking firms on Leipziger strasse, alarmed by the recent failures of Hirschfeld & Wolff and Friedlander & Sommerfeld, to-day visited the bankers and withdrew their deposits. There was great excitement among the depositors and it was found necessary to detail a number of policemen for the special purpose of keeping the crowd in order. There was a run upon the banks generally. All demands were met, however, and this fact tended in a great measure to allay the excitement. The feeling is now becoming quieter.

Rebels and Their Lands Seized.

SYDNEY, Nov. 10.—News has been received here from Samoa that Malietoa, the reigning chief, who has been upheld by Great Britain, Germany and the United States, has proclaimed as rebels Mataafa and his followers, who have recently shown much dissatisfaction to his rule, and has also confiscated their lands. The islands of the group, however, are in a peaceful condition.

Retired Soldiers As Postmen.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Sir James Fergusson, Postmaster-General announces that in future retired soldiers will have the preference for employment as postmen. This decision is intended to stimulate recruiting. It will result in the employment of 16,000 men.

Severe Winter Threatened in Europe.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The winter is commencing with unusual severity in Eastern Europe. There has been a black frost in Southern Russia, which it is feared will ruin the winter crops. All the mountains in Greece are covered with snow and severe frosts have occurred.

$2,000,000 Additional for the Army.

VIENNA, Nov. 10.—The Austro-Hungarian budget for 1891 was presented to the delegations Monday. It shows that the estimate expended yesterday from the wound inflicted expenditures for the fiscal year of 1892 amount to 139,132 florins, which is an increase of 3,802,459 florins. The expenditures on account of the army are estimated at 119,265,262 florins, an increase of 4,320,828 florins.

Liberated by Ballot.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—Lafargue, the Socialist who was recently elected deputy for Lille, has been liberated from prison. A general amnesty is not improbable.

The Sultan Cuts Off Some Heads.

TANGIER, Nov. 10.—The Sultan has dismissed several of his ministers, whom he has for some past suspected of disloyalty to him.

No Penny Postage.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Postmaster-General Fergusson has pronounced against penny postage.

A NORTHERN MYSTERY.

Strange Discovery Reported in the Athabasca District

EDMONTON, Alberta, Nov. 10.—The Bulletin says: Bishop Young of Athabasca, in a letter dated Dunvegan, reports that last winter Albert J. Kneeland, while engaged in driving cattle some 20 miles above Vermilion on Peace River, observed a heavy smoke arising from a place where a considerable land slip had occurred. Lying in the vicinity some few months later he noticed the smoke was still rising and the ground was bare of snow in the vicinity where the smoke was proceeding from. Last August Bishop Young and Mr. Kneeland visited and carefully examined the broken ground in the neighborhood of the land slip, and found that the smoke proceeded from some deep fissures occasioned by the land slips, and strong fumes, much like those from a brick kiln, arose. Burning paper was dropped down those fissures but no result followed, clearly proving that the heat and fumes arise from a different source than the gas springs on the Athabasca River. Bishop Young is of the opinion that the burning, which has not been more than two years in existence, arises from a seam of coal which the land slide has exposed. The face of the river bank in the vicinity is marked by a bluish shale which frequently discolors the banks of the Peace River.

QUEER SORT OF LOVE POWDER.

A Bride of Five Weeks Tries to Hasten Her Husband's Exit.

WOBURN, Mass., Nov. 10.—Mrs. Maria Halloran, aged 23, was held yesterday on a charge of attempting to poison her husband of five weeks, Bartholomew Halloran, aged 38, by putting Paris green into his food. Mrs. Halloran admits that she sprinkled some of her husband's food with powder that she bought in Boston and that it was recommended to her as having the power of increasing her husband's affection for her. Her victim, however, seems to be of the opinion that some property he owns was the real incentive and had his wife arrested. Halloran was made seriously ill by eating the food.

Only Three of a Kind Now.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 10.—John Kopp was found hanging in his cellar last night by his little daughter. He had been dead an hour. During the day he seemed in the best of spirits and worked at his trade of a cabinet maker.

He had been in poor health for a long time and this drove him to despondency. He had been to the famous suicide club

MORE ELECTIONS VOIDED

BRIBERY BY AGENTS THE CAUSE IN EACH CASE.

Mr. G. Gibson Unseated in Welland and Mr. Tarte in Montmancy—The Kent and Marquette Petitions Dismissed, No Evidence Being Offered.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Nov. 10.—At the trial of the controverted election petition for Lincoln and Niagara, which was held here yesterday before Justices Falconbridge and Street, the respondent, Mr. William Gibson of Beamsville was unseated. Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, Q.C., who appeared for the petitioner, after asking for permission to make some amendments as to other charges, proceeded with charge three, which set out that George Longley, an agent of the respondent, had paid to Melvin Smith, a voter, the sum of $6 to abstain from voting for the Conservative candidate, Mr. Sylvester Neelon. Longley's agency was proved by Mr. Gilleland, a special agent for the respondent in St. Catharines. Melvin Smith testified as to himself and his brother having been paid $6 each to refrain from voting.

Mr. Lash called no evidence in defence, and the election was declared void. The judgment included a dismissal of the personal charges, as far as the respondent was concerned, Mr. Aylesworth stating it was not the intention to offer any evidence regarding them.

There is a current report throughout the city that Sylvester Neelon, the defeated candidate, does not now desire Parliamentary honors, and that Mr. J. C. Rykert and Mr. William Gibson are likely candidates for the vacant seat.

Kent Petition Dismissed.

CHATHAM, Nov. 10.—When the court for the trial of the Kent controverted election opened at the county court house Monday before Justices Rose and MacMahoned yesterday morning in the Superior Court, Mr. J. C. Patterson of Essex, counsel for the petitioner, announced on behalf of the petitioner that it had been decided in reviewing the evidence collected that there was not sufficient to support the charges against the respondent, Mr. Alexander Campbell, and that therefore they did not propose to go on with the case.

The petition was accordingly dismissed with costs.

Mr. Tarte Unseated for Bribery.

What is

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a Laxative, and is good for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrup, and all such. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is that it has cured Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms, cures feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria cures teething troubles, cures constipation and indigestion. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. KINCHLOE,
Conway, Ar.

Castoria.

"Castoria is the best medicine for children. I recommend it to all mothers who are not known to me."

H. A. Smith, M.D.,
111 So. Orange St., New York.

"Our physicians tell us that our children have spent a great deal of time in the office in their outside treatment, and although we have used many of the medical supplies which we have purchased, yet we have not been able to get the merits of Castoria. It is the best medicine for children."

His father and four brothers also committed suicide. Kopp was a middle aged man and leaves a large family. He had frequently said he would kill himself.

A Torontonians Shot.

BUFFALO, Nov. 10.—James Arno came from Toronto six weeks ago and has worked as a bartender at Hamilton's saloon, corner of Michigan and Gay-streets. He lies at the Emergency hospital twixt life and death with a bullet in his back which could not be located. The shooting occurred last night near midnight at the corner of the notorious Vine alley and Michigan-street, and according to Arno's story he was walking quietly along with several companions when a row began with some corner loungers and the shot was fired.

The Oldest Mason in the World Dies.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 9.—At Boonville, Mo., to-day William H. Hurley died, aged 97 years and six months. He was one of the pioneers of Missouri, and had been an active member of the Masonic Order for 75 years, being the oldest living Mason in the world.

Lost A Foot.

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—At the Parkdale station of the Grand Trunk yesterday William Dill, chief usher at the Academy of Music, was boarding a train when his foot got caught in a frog, and before he could release himself, a freight train passed over the imprisoned member. He was removed to the hospital in the ambulance. The foot was badly crushed, and will have to be amputated.

Arm Cut Off.

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—David Lamour, an engineer, while attempting to board a car at the corner of Queen and York-streets about 5.30 last night, slipped and fell under the car, sustaining such severe injuries to his arm that it had to be amputated at the hospital.

Toronto Mayoralty.

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—At a meeting of prominent citizens held at the Board of Trade last evening, Mr. E. B. Osler, broker, consented to become a candidate for the mayoralty.

A Child and Matches.

GLOUCESTER, Ont., Nov. 9.—The barn and outbuilding belonging to John Fox of this township were consumed by fire yesterday afternoon, together with contents, consisting of this year's crop of grain, hay and fodder, as well as the greater part of his machinery. The fire was caused by a young child playing with matches setting fire to a straw stack close to the barn. Although the building was insured the loss will be heavy.

The bodies of the crew of the collier Kathlicon, seven men in all, have been washed ashore at Clacton-on-the-Sea.

Services and other observances in honor of the Czar's silver wedding were held yesterday in Paris, Nice, Vienna, Berlin, Belgrade and Copenhagen.

Acts of brigandage by men rendered desperate by hunger are increasing in Russia. Hundreds of men employed on the railways have plundered freight trains and marauded the country in gangs, sacking farms and mansions. The mortality among children from hunger and typhus is frightful.

Mr. Gladstone, in a letter supporting the Liberal candidate for South Molten, dwells upon the necessity of a strong representation of farmers as a class in Parliament, as well as of laborers.

A free fight occurred at Dunmanway between two families named Lynch and Hurley over the possession of a piece of land. Crowbars and farming implements were used as weapons, and five of the combatants had their skulls fractured.

Mr. Tarte Unsated for Bribery.
QUEBEC, Nov. 10.—Judgment was rendered by Justices Routhier and Casault presiding, in the contested election case of L. Tarte, member for Montmorency in the House of Commons. The judgment was against Mr. Tarte, unsating him for bribery committed by his agent.
It is said Mr. Tarte will shortly leave on a trip to Paris.

Another Petition Dismissed.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10.—Petition against return of Robert Watson, Liberal member for Marquette, was dismissed yesterday, the Conservatives offering no evidence.

A SCUFFLE ENDS IN DEATH.

Probably Fatal Outcome of a Row at Bloomfield.

PICTON, Ont., Nov. 10.—Emory Ferguson and Joseph Rogers attended the Salvation Army meeting in Bloomfield last evening. After the services, and almost immediately after leaving the barracks, they were stoned by a party of four or five, and one of the attacking parties named Bowerman came up and struck Ferguson twice. Ferguson drew a revolver and said he would defend himself. Bowerman immediately seized the revolver and in the struggle for possession of the weapon it was discharged, the ball entering Ferguson's abdomen, lodging near the back. Ferguson will die. No arrests have been made.

A Piece of Yarn Around His Neck.

VICTORIA, B.C., Nov. 10.—The body of an Indian named Semamuck was found lying face down in the brush near Saanich. There was a piece of yarn attached to his neck and to the limb of a neighboring tree, but the string was both too weak to bear his weight and too long to give anyone the idea that he had hanged himself. He was last seen alive in Saanich about a week ago, when he went there to see a woman with whom he used to live. She was his sister-in-law, and he was desirous of marrying her, but to this the priest would not consent on grounds of too near relationship. It seems he was not successful in his affection and there was a parting.

Left Their Bill Unpaid.

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont., Nov. 10.—A young couple registered at the Wardrobe Hotel here a few weeks ago as Walter Lussier and wife, Ottawa. The man insisted on having the finest room and best accommodation the house could afford. They remained nearly three weeks, and when the young man was reminded that his board bill was unpaid, he said he was an employee of the Printing Bureau, Ottawa, and expected a check in a day or two for his month's salary. The other night the couple let their valises down out of a back window with a rope, and then quietly slipping out themselves, took the midnight train for Brockville, where they were arrested and brought back here yesterday.

Successful Dash for Liberty.

KINGSTON, Nov. 10.—On Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock, as the convicts were being assembled for removal to the prison, a man named Morrison of a quarry gang made a dash for liberty and up to the present is free. He was 25 years of age and very keen. It is thought he took to the woods on Saturday night and jumped on a freight train. He arrived here in April, having been sentenced from St. Thomas for three years for larceny.

Claims $10,000 Damages.

HAMILTON, Nov. 10.—Prior to leaving for his home in Brantford William P. Scarfe, the young commercial traveler who figured so prominently in the police court sensation of Saturday morning, and who was discharged on the ground that he had committed no offence, as he had a right to enter the woman's bedroom at her invitation, instructed his solicitors, Messrs. Nesbitt, Bicknell & Gauld, to enter an action against Mr. John Hood of the Royal Hotel for alleged illegal arrest and malicious prosecution. The amount at which young Scarfe fixes the damages to his reputation is $10,000.

A Drop in Manitoba Wheat.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 9.—In consequence of rise of lake rates between Port William and Buffalo the price of wheat in this country has dropped four cents per bushel. It would seem that as there is more wheat going out for export than available bottoms can carry shipowners have taken advantage of situation to increase rates.

—This week has been "self-denial" week with the Salvation Army people.

—Do not fail to read our notice of a Wonderful Book in to-day's issue.

—Hundred of islands have appeared in the Bay of Quinte in consequence of the low water.

—The prospect's for a good Fall trade are brightening. Our merchants want cold weather.

—Enterprise cheese factory has closed for the season. Last month's make was very small.

—The dance held in the town hall last Tuesday evening was a failure on account of bad weather.

—A new platform and sidewalk has been built at the station for the convenience of K. N. & W. passengers.

—The old business firm of Joy & Son's have added a planer and other additional machinery to their saw mill.

—The steamer Hero ran on a shoal in the Kingston harbor Friday afternoon. She was aground about an hour.

—Mr. J. G. Allison, of Tyendinaga, shot a fine deer in the vicinity of Mud Lake. It weighed when dressed 186 pounds.

—The want of water is beginning to make itself severely felt around town, a goodly number of cisterns being now dry.

—Mr. Alex Craig has had an engine erected in his grist mill, near the falls, the water being so low this season as to be almost useless.

—One of the oldest inhabitants remarked last night that he never saw the moon so far south as it is this month. An indication of fine weather.

—The ladies of the Guild in connection with the Anglican Episcopal church, Napanee, worked hard last year and raised the fine sum of $1,044.

—Ladies, if you are suffering from any of the ailments peculiar to your sex give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. They will not fail you. Sold by all dealers.

—In consequence of the continued dry weather fall plowing is going on slowly. The ground in many places is so hard that it is almost impossible to stir it.

—Doxsee and Co. Dry goods and Millinery dealers will remove to the Leonard block in the old Magnolia billiard parlor about December the first.

—Edison has two more great inventions one to work trains by electricity, and the other to drive street cars by electricity without the use of the overhead wire.

—Michael Burns, an aged man living in Bowmanville, cut his throat from ear to ear with a razor on Saturday, but still lives. He had been sick and was tired of life.

—Children almost invariably suffer from catarrh at this season. Do not neglect it until perhaps consumption is developed, but apply Nasal Balm at once. It never fails to cure.

The tinsmiths are now as busy as nailers making everything ready for winter which will soon be on hand, although the

Camden Reformers.

A meeting of the Camden Reform Association is appointed for Saturday, Nov. 14th, to be held at Kennedy's hotel, Centreville, at 2 o'clock p.m. All Reformers should endeavor to attend.

Great Offer.

THE NAPANEE EXPRESS and the WEEKLY GLOBE from now to the end of 1892 for only $1.75. Subscribers are respectfully solicited to make this offer known to their friends. It will do them no harm and may do the EXPRESS a good turn.

Sale for Farm Stock, etc.

On Wednesday, Nov. 18th, there will be a sale of the farm stock and implements, on Lot No. 7, concession 2, Camden, the premises lately owned by Mr. Lafayette Lott. Sale commences at 12 o'clock, noon. R. McCay, auctioneer.

Lost.

On Wednesday afternoon on Dundas street between Hinch's and Robinson's dry goods stores, a pair of heavy gold spectacles. Finder will confer a great favor by leaving them at this office or returning them to the owner, Mrs. Eunice Unger, Clarkville road.

How It Was Divided.

The estate of the late Rev. William Hansford, formerly of Napanee, is valued at $21,866, divided as follows: To J. E. Hansford, three-sevenths, to W. F. Hansford, two-sevenths, and to Susannah Emily Hansford and Fannie Pearce, one-seventh each. He gave small bequests to the funds of the Methodist church.

More Illegal Fishing.

Last week Fishing Inspector, A. D. Sills, fined four fishermen at Mohawk Bay for plying their business at Loug Reach, and intends making an example of some others. At present the close season for salmon trout is from the 15th of October to the 30th of November. The order in council fixing a close season for fresh water herring and ciscos has been rescinded.

Gold Dollars Found

Mr. Thos. E. Anderson has for sale the old A. D. Fraser farm of 104 acres in South Fredericksburgh the best farm in the County price $5800. He also has for sale the farm formerly owned by Robert Collins Esq. in Adolphustown, consisting of 220 acres price $7500. Terms very easy. It is like finding gold dollars to purchase either of these farms at the prices named.

The Revision Finished.

Last week's Beaver says: On the revision of the Dominion voters' lists of Lennox the changes have been very great, and the alterations as they stand now will make at least 500 voters better than at the last election. The Beaver does not say who or what is to be 500 better, unless it means that the lists will contain 500 more names. Probably as many of these will be grist as tory.

Always Dying But Not Dead Yet.

Mr. G. N. Scott, of the Parker steam dyeing and cleaning company of Toronto, town was in this week with their handsome conveyance. Judging from the large number of patrons they have gained in town Napanee people evidently intend to me

NAPANEE, FRIDAY, NOV. 13, 1891.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

—For fine Photos go to Hulett's.
—Brooches from 25cts. up at Arnotts.
—Wilkinson's plows at Miles S. Plumley.
—Nickle alarm Clocks at $1.70 at Arnotts, opposite Symingtons grocery.

—A new furnace is being placed in the residence of H. M. Deroche, Esq.
—A man named Morrison escaped from the Kingston penitentiary last Saturday.
—The Salvation Army attended revival services in the Lutheran church, Morven, on Tuesday.

—Do you want money to improve your property or buy a farm? Ask Miles S. Plumley, agent.
—It is as cowardly to talk about a man behind his back as it is to throw stones at his house in the dark.

—A new and beautiful line of 8 day Clocks at $4.50 at Arnott's, next to Jameson bakery one door west.

—Deseronto athletes are talking of forming an association and fitting up the Stewart hall as a gymnasium.

—Nicholas Ward, of Pleasant Valley, met with a severe runaway accident while returning from Napanee, the result of a broken axle.

—Mr. James Harband, of Macdonald, North Fredericksburgh, had a stroke of paralysis on Wednesday last week. Dr. Yeomans, of Deseronto, is attending him.

—The water struck by the Belleville people in boring for natural gas is declared by the local papers to contain more medicinal properties than any other water in Canada.

—A. B. Aylesworth, Q. C., of Toronto, son of J. B. Aylesworth, of Newburgh, has been retained as counsel for the petitioners in the Prince Edward election trial which will be held on December 14th.

—The Society editor of the Rochester Herald has made the discovery that no well bred young man will take a lady's arm when out walking with her. The proper paper is to allow her to take his.

—A large number of Indian relics have been discovered at Wheeler's Bay. There were three skeletons, one of a man with a gun on his shoulder. There were a number of brass kettles, tomahawks, knives, flints, beads etc.

—The ladies of Lonsdale have organized a Ladies' Aid in connection with the Methodist church. The following are the officers:—Mrs. John Brucein, pres; vice pres. Mrs. Dr. Whitmar; sec. Mrs. Hawley; Treas., Miss Lazier.

—The fence gang on the G. T. R. in returning from Fredericksburgh on a hand-car one night last week were unceremoniously dumped off by the front wheels breaking and derailling the car. All hands got a bad shaking up and some were badly bruised.

—Mrs. Abbott, the little Georgia Magnet, has a rival in London, England, in a man named Mitram Negg, who jumps 205 feet from the top of the Aquarium, and lands on the bare ground. He wears the costume of an American Indian, and his rapid descent is broken by some patent arrangement invisible to the audience. All London is running to see the startling feat and to discuss what it is that breaks his fall.

—Why burn the dead leaves, as is done every autumn? Better to rake into heaps and cover them with a thin layer of soil, in which by the spring time they will form a rich dressing for the garden, or to lay at the roots of the trees which they fall from. To burn them up is not only to cause a smoke nuisance to a whole neighborhood, and a danger when the wind blows, but to waste wantonly one of the most valuable of manurial agents.

which will soon be on hand, although the weather is very mild for this time of the year.

—Barley is now coming in briskly. The price during the past week has raised considerably. Good barley brings 45 cents. On Thursday one load ran up as high as 49 cents.

—Mr. Babbit, chief of police at Picton, was bitten so severely in the cheek one night last week by a drunken man that he has been confined to his home since and in a daughter's care.

—Four Chigamens were arrested in Watertown last Saturday while loitering about the station to take the train for New York. They were suspected of having illegally entered the country.

—Mr. Ira B. Sills, of Richmond, sowed one pound of sugar beet seeds upon 1/2 of an acre, which produced at the rate of 800 bushels per acre. Mr. Sills thinks this kind of beets extra quality for table use.

—The stone grist mill at Hollaway, owned by John Frederick and occupied by John Wanger, was burned recently. All the grain in the mill was also burned. The mill was built by Henry Wallbridge and cost $52 000.

—A horse belonging to Mr. George Pearson, butcher, Deseronto, made a wild runaway one day last week, starting from Mr. Bell's on the Boundary and then rushing down the Napanee road. The wagon was completely demoralized.

—The Rankins, Sexsmith and Perry hunting party have already sent home eighteen deer, seven barrels of white fish and eighteen barrels of Salmon trout. The party are twelve in number and intend making a three weeks trip of it.

—The report that a trotting race would take place in Napanee on Thursday for a purse of $500 between Parasol, owned by W. D. McRae, and the pacer formerly owned by Hafner Bros., of Kingston, was a false report, no such race taking place.

—Last Friday afternoon as Mr. Thomas O'Neil was walking down Centre street, past the Campbell House, a piece of glass, about a foot long, fell from one of the upper storey windows and with a dull thud stuck in the sidewalk passing within a few feet of Mr. O'Neil's head.

—Mr. Frank Vanluven, of Napanee, last week chartered the schooner Bullock to load barley, but on her arrival at the swing bridge the water was so low that she could not pass through owing to the breadth of her beam. The schooner has gone through frequently in the past.

—Many business men along the C. P. R. are finding fault with the increase of freight rates which went into effect the first of November. Fourth class goods are now 24 cents instead of 10 cents per hundred as last fall. The summer rate on freight of this description was 14 cents.

—The Napanee high school Foot Ball Club competed in the football (Association) tournament at Picton yesterday. The competing teams were the Picton high school F. B. C., Deseronto high school F. B. C., Belleville Deaf Mutes F. B. C., and the Napanee high school F. B. C.

—The "Rainbow Tea" last evening, given by the young ladies in connection with the Eastern Methodist Sunday School, passed off very successfully. The supper was sumptuous and excellent and the sacred altar concert, given in the body of the church, delighted the large audience that listened to it. A natty little sum was realized.

—A disease has broken out among pigs in this district, which is stated by eminent authorities to be hog cholera. Within two days a dozen pigs have died at the Rockwood asylum piggery, Kingston. Dr. Massie says the cause of death is cholera, which he thinks is in the air. The disease is likely to be disseminated by trains carrying hogs up and down the country. One farmer in Sidney has lost three fine pigs within a week and the disease is creating sad havoc throughout the county.

—A good story is told of a minister, who not having succeeded in winning the good will of his congregation and being poorly paid for his services, accepted a position as warden of the penitentiary and was about to preach his farewell sermon. He introduced his remarks by saying: "I have been a year amongst you and am now compelled for three reasons to leave you. In the first place the Lord does not love you, for during the year I have not had one funeral; secondly you cannot love one another for I have not had one marriage; thirdly, you cannot love me or you would have paid my last quarter's salary, so I go to be warden of the penitentiary. You will find my text, beloved brethren, in the words, 'I go to prepare a place for you'."

or patrons they have gained in town. Napanee people evidently intend to make the Company dye. W. H. Palmer, known as "Billy" is still with Mr. S. and both are staying at that well known hostlerie, the Campbell House.

Death of Samuel Baird.

Word was received at Tamworth of the death of Samuel Baird, at Oaklands, Cal. Mr. Baird formerly resided in Tamworth where he has many friends. He was a member of the A. O. U. W. and I. O. O. F., and his funeral was conducted jointly by these societies last Wednesday. For the past twenty years he has resided in the western states and lately conducted a large undertaking establishment at Tucson, Arizona.

Last Week's Accidents at Deseronto.

On Saturday Joseph McCann was struck in the head by a board in the factory causing a deep wound of the scalp. On Wednesday David Nealon received a deep cut on the thumb by a pulley in the machine shop. On Wednesday, Mrs. Thomas Oak, while performing some household duties, accidentally cut a deep gash about two inches long on her left hand and thumb, with a sharp knife. Dr. Vandervoort attended the injured in each of the foregoing cases.

Two Handsome Trophies.

This week Mr. Myron Mills set up a handsome deer's head for Mr. Benjamin Allison, of Tyendinaga. It is one of the best specimens we have ever had the pleasure to look at, the set of horns being almost perfect. It will be sent as a present to relatives in New York. He is also setting up the handsome peacock of Harry Hunter's, which for so long ornamented the hotel yard to the admiration of all who saw it and suddenly died last Wednesday. It will make a handsome trophy.

Sunday School.

A meeting of the Executive committee of the Lennox and Addington Sunday School Convention was held on Tuesday 10th inst. to consider the Sunday School work in the County. It was decided that the importance of Sunday School work demanded the earnest attention of all Christian workers and it was desirable that the work of organizing the township should be proceeded with at once and the committee earnestly desire the co-operation of all Sunday School workers to aid in the work.

The Phonograph.

On Wednesday evening last a phonograph was exhibited in the Town Hall under the auspices of the Guild of S. Mary Magdalene's church. The instrument as a novelty was a decided success, its reproductions of songs and instrumental music were good and could be heard over the whole of the large hall without difficulty. Some of the numbers were reproduced much better than others, and all the higher musical notes were reproduced with greater fidelity than were the baritone or bass parts. The instrument is worth seeing and hearing.

A Prompt Response Needed.

Reader, we want to say a few things to you personally. At the same time if this does not apply to your particular case do not take offence. A number of our subscribers are yet in arrears. They doubtless intend to pay, but have delayed longer than is good for us. The amount due us by one is not large, but the aggregate is a considerable sum, the need of which we feel very much. The expenses of publication are very heavy, and have to be met promptly. Will those whose subscriptions are due or overdue do us the kindness of remitting at once? A prompt response to this call will greatly help the work in which we are engaged and in which we are glad to believe they also have an interest. Please do not delay longer.

Thanksgiving Service.

Yesterday, being Thanksgiving Day, a special meeting was held in the Presbyterian Church, Rev. C. O. Johnston and Rev. Mr. Shorey agreeing to hold a union thanksgiving service in the church, possibly on account of the Presbyterians being without a pastor. Mr. Johnston opened the service in his usual able manner. Mr. Shorey followed by giving a very appropriate and able sermon which was much appreciated by all. Mr. Shorey pointed out a number of reasons why we should be thankful for the many blessings which were bestowed upon mankind. Taking the following text for his remarks, found in Nehemiah viii and 10 verse. "Go your way, eat the fat and drink the sweet, and send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared." The collection was handed the Kings Daughters, in aid of the poor.

 I've allus heered more or less about political economy, but I didn't know what it was till last year, when they turned a feller out of office in our town who had stole $3,000 and put in another who couldn't find but $2,800 to lay his hands on.

American Harrow Co., Windsor, Ont.
 DEAR SIR:—I bought one of your Gale Harrows and Seed-o-rs, after seeing it thoroughly tested in all kinds of land and have used it on a field of soil, where the grass was very thick, and I never saw its equal for doing the work your agents recommended it to do. It leaves the trash all on top, exposed to the sun, where it will dry up. I think the Gale is the best general purpose machine ever introduced in this section, and would advise my neighbor farmers to see it work before purchasing anything in that line.
 GEO. K. PARKS.
 Selby, Sept 8th, 1891.
 This is to certify that the Gale Sulky Harrow and Seeder I bought from your agent, Mr. Milligan, has given me the best of satisfaction in every respect. I have used it on stubble ground, where the grass and thistles were very thick, also as a pulverizer and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best cultivator and general purpose machine in the market.
 DAVID MARTIN.
 American Harrow Co., Windsor, Ont.
 GENTLEMEN:—Regarding the Harrow and Cultivator I bought from your agent, I will say that after seeing all other kinds work, I had no hesitation in buying the Gale, as I consider it far superior to any of them.

 —A temperance society was organized in Athel church Tuesday, with Rev. D. McCormick as president.
 —Next Sunday the Grand Trunk railway double track from Montreal to Kingston will be ready for use.
 —If you still owe an account or note to Miles S. Plumley, call and pay it at once and save money and expense.
 —The house and blacksmith shop of Mr. John Welsh, 5th concession of Tyendinaga was burned one day last week.
 —The display of cattle at the fair Enterprise last Tuesday was good. Kingston butchers made large purchases.
 —Something the people should not forget. Call at the East End boot and shoe Store for winter and fall Boots.
 J. FENNELL & SON.
 —A burglar broke into Judge Fralick's residence, Belleville, on Monday night last and stole $10. He evidently had no fear of the law.
 —Don't forget to call on the EXPRESS if you want any note heads, bill heads, letter heads, envelopes, etc. Our work cannot be surpassed for neatness.
 —Put camphor gum with your new silverware, and it will never tarnish as long as the gum is there. Never wash silver in soap suds, as it gives it a white appearance.
 —The St. Helena Star, of St. Helena's Napa Co., Cal., of Oct. 23d, states the following: "Jeff Montgomery came down town to his accustomed duties last Saturday morning with a smile on his countenance as broad as Main street. When asked for a reason of his apparent good humor he replied that he had the finest boy at home in Napa county. He is prouder than ex-President Cleveland." Mrs. Montgomery was a daughter of Mr. B. Crawford, formerly of Nanapanee.
 DEAR SIR:—I have pleasure in certifying that we purchased a Gale Harrow and Seeder for use on this farm, have tried it thoroughly in various soils and conditions, and am well satisfied with the work it does.
 Respectfully,
 JAMES MILLS,
 Pres. Ont., Agricultural College.
 American Harrow Co., Windsor, Ont.
 GENTS:—I bought the first Gale Sulky Harrow seeder sold in this neighborhood and have used it on stubble that had not been plowed and it did the work better than a drag plow. I also used it to dig my potatoes and it did the work to perfection. In fact I consider the Gale an A No. 1 machine in every respect and think it will do all your agent said it would.
 FRANCIS WHITE, Port Perry, Ont.
 American Harrow Co., Windsor, Ont.
 GENTS:—Having purchased one of your cultivators and Seeders from your agent and used it on land very bad with twigs, grass, weeds and thistles, and have dug my potatoes. I must say that I never saw its equal for the use for which the agent recommended it. I would advise every farmer who is not supplied to give it a trial, as I am convinced that it is the best implement of its kind in the market, at least I would not take twice the price of it for it if I could not get another.
 JONATHAN PORTER
 DEAR SIR:—I bought one of your Gale Sulky Cultivators. After giving it thorough trial I am well pleased with the way it does the work. I have used it on hard land where switch grass was very thick and it left the grass all out on top where it will wither and die. I also used it to dig 1 1/2 acres of potatoes, and it did a first class job. I consider it the best general purpose machine I ever saw, and would advise my neighbor farmers to see it work before purchasing anything in that line.
 Yours truly,
 JONATHAN BRAY

 Oh, What a Cough!
 Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of the more terrible disease Consumption. Ask yourself if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. Weakness from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails.
 Consumption!
 Do not give up until you have tried Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which makes flesh and blood, is a positive cure for coughs and colds, bronchitis, sore throat, and all lung troubles tending to consumption. Persons have been known to gain from five to ten pounds in weight by taking one bottle of Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which contains hypophosphites of lime and soda. In big bottles, 50c. and $1., at Nanapanee drug stores.
 For Wags that are Dark.
 The strategy of the westerner, the one who signed the name of Her Majesty the Queen to a circular, calling upon the Indians in his constituency to rally to his support during an election, has been discounted by a warrior on Tyendinaga Reserve who is a candidate for the suffrage of the braves at the approaching council elections. The witty Mohawk during a visit to Ottawa purchased a photograph of Lord Stanley, the governor general. This he had mounted on a card side by side with one of himself. He now tells the glib electors that Lord Stanley was so pleased with him when he called at Rideau Hall that he insisted on him going to the gallery that both might be photographed together. As the Indians are pre eminently loyal it is easy to see the effect that this story and the double portrait is likely to have and the "pull" that this candidate has upon the voters of the Reserve.

 A Severe Attack.
 DEAR SIR:—My children were taken ill with ulcerated sore throats bordering on diphtheria. I had nothing in the house but Dr. Gray's Yellow Oil which I used with great benefit. I am sure if it had not been for it the children would have developed into diphtheria. It is a splendid medicine.

 DEAR SIR:—I tried one of your Gale Sulky Harrows on a ten acre field of sod where the thistles were very thick and it did the work so much better than any other implement I ever saw that I purchased it, and have always found it as good a machine as your agent recommended it to be. I also bought the seeder attachment and used it to sow the above field to fall wheat. It is now up and I never saw grain better or more evenly sown. I have a good drill nearly new but am convinced that grain sown with the Gale will give the best results. Yours,

 —Jno. Paisley will move his grocery and crockery store into the old Slaven store about the 1st of December.
 —The front of Baker's old stand on the market, now owned by T. Thompson, has been taken out this week and several improvements made.
 —T. Depew, of Kingston, has accomplished the wonderful feat of building a full rigged ship in a half-pint bottle. He will exhibit it at the worlds fair.
 —On Monday the cart horse of Mr Samuel Kelly ran away turning the Campbell House corner but was stopped on the market before any damage was done.
 —The cases for sending deteriorated milk to the cheese factories in this county number 17 and will be heard next Tuesday All but six have admitted the offence.
 —We extend our congratulations to Mr. Henry Perry, of Preston & Ruttan's law office, in having successfully passed his examinations in law. He figured top of the list.
 —Yesterday R. Hooper, an employee of the Nanapanee Paper Company, accidentally fell from the roof of the machine room, and was seriously injured. Dr. Grant was summoned to his assistance.
 The boldest Hallowe'en trick of the season is reported from Pembina, where the younger lads of the town put two cows belonging to a neighbor in the upstairs chamber of an occupied house.
 —"God now commandeth all men everywhere to repent," and "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation," have been stenciled on the sidewalks in different parts of the town by the "Converted Jew."
 —Messrs. Maybee and Vanalstine have received a lot of 50 decoy ducks direct from New York. They are made of rubber and can be carried in the pocket and when required for use all that is necessary is to inflate them with air.
 —The concert under the auspices of the Collegiate Institute Literary Society last Friday was a grand success. Great taste was exhibited in the arrangement of the stage and the society are to be congratulated over their many successful entertainments of late.
 —Mr. McGriffin, of McGregor, Texas, has been in a dazed condition for about a week and wonders if some plan could not be contrived to keep his salary advancing in the same ratio as his family. About a year ago his wife presented him with triplets. Last week she beat that record, by giving birth to four children at a time.
 ST. PETERSBURGH, Nov. 11.—A railroad disaster is reported at Melitopol, in the Crimea. A train was totally wrecked there and caught fire. A number of the train hands perished.
 PRAGUE, Nov. 11.—The police to-day raided the residences of a number of Anarchists and made six arrests of persons suspected of complicity in a plot.
 LONDON, Nov. 11.—Advices have been received that influenza has reappeared in Montevideo, and that 2,000 persons are affected with the disease.
 The widow of the Right Hon. W. H. Smith is gazetted as Viscountess Hameldon. The right of succession falls upon the male heirs.
